Month Of Talks Preceded Turnabout On S. Vietnam

© New York Times Service

Washington — On the cold and cheerless morning of Feb. 28, 1968, the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, landed at Andrews Air Force Base from an urgent mission to Saigon. It was shortly after dawn.

Pausing only to change into a fresh uniform, he hurried through the rain to the White House to deliver a report and make a request.

The report was designed to encourage an anxious president and his beleaguered advisers. But it served only to shock them into extended debate.

The request — for more troops — was designed to bring at last an allied military victory in Vietnam. But it led instead to a fateful series of decisions that stand in retrospect as one of the most remarkable turnabouts in American foreign policy.

None Knew

Neither President Johnson nor his most intimate aides knew that morning what a rigorous and intense month awaited them as they assembled for breakfast in the executive mansion.

The debate began almost by accident and gained a momentum all its own. Its progress was dramatically recorded in 12 versions of a presidential speech that evolved through the month of March, 1968 — the last draft pointing in the opposite direction from the first.

The entire episode provided a remarkable demonstration of how foreign policy is battled out, inch-by-inch, by negotiation rather than decision.

By the time of that fateful breakfast, Johnson had been thinking for about two months about not seeking re-election. But his principal advisers had little inkling of this.

Clark M. Clifford, not yet sworn in as secretary of defense, was to play the pivotal role in the Vietnam reassessment, but it was not a one-man show. Clifford himself had to be persuaded.

Month-Long Debate

The debate raged through March and when it was over, Johnson had set the government on the path toward peace negotiations and disengagement from the war.

The catalytic event in the policy reappraisal was the enemy's lunar new year offensive, which began Jan. 30, 1968.

North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces held the initiative and American intelligence did not know where they would strike next.

The psychological impact on Washington had outrun the event. The capital was stunned.

Wheeler Reassuring

According to him, Tet had not been a military defeat. The enemy had been thrown back with heavy losses. The foe had failed to spark a popular uprising against the Saigon regime.

Paradoxically, however, more — many more — American troops were needed. The allies were off-balance, vulnerable to another offensive.

Gen. William C. Westmoreland, field commander in Saigon, felt, Wheeler reported, that massive reinforcements would guard against a quick repetition of the Tet offensive and would allow the allies to regain the initative, to exploit the enemy's losses and to "speed the course of the war to our objectives." Wheeler gave this request his personal endorsement.

It added up to 206,000 more men.

Policy 'Turnaround' Explored

In the accompanying article, and a second chapter to appear Saturday morning, the staff of the New York Times reports and analyzes what went on in top government circles during the fateful month in which U.S. policy regarding Vietnam was "turned around". The articles were written by Hedrick Smith in collabration with William Beecher and incorporating reports by Peter Grose, John W. Finney, E. W. Kenworthy, Roy Reed, Benjamin Welles, Edwin L. Dale Jr., and Max Frankel.

ROCKETS ECHO . . .

Session Is Cut Short

© New York Times Service

Paris — The U.S. delegation to the Vietnam peace talks, citing the latest rocket attacks against Saigon, told the other side Thursday that "the consequences of these attacks are your responsibility."

The warning, which did not elaborate on an allied response, was delivered by the chief U.S. negotiator, Henry Cabot Lodge, in a bitter exchange at the seventh plenary session of the talks here.

It was the shortest meeting since the round table debates began Jan. 25. Thursday's session was broken off after four hours following a request by Saigon's chief delegate, Pham Dang Lam, to adjourn until March 13 because "an atmosphere favorable to useful discussions does not exist."

Move Coordinated

Though the move for adjournment had been coordinated by the two allied delegations, Lodge remarked to newsmen later that "this isn't a walkout."

However, Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky of South Vietnam, who left for Saigon, told reporters that he might not return if the guerrilla attacks continued.

"If the battle is resumed and intensified," Ky declared, "my place is in combat and not around the green cloth" of a conference table. The vice president is supervising Saigon's negotiating team here, though he does not attend formal conference sessions.

The chief delegates for North Vietnam and the National Liberation Front of the Viet Cong, Thursday renewed their attacks on President Nixon.

The front's representative, Tran Buu Kiem, asserted that since Nixon became president, "despite his copious honeyed words of peace the new American administration does nothing but continue and intensify its war of aggression in South Vietnam."

Thuy Cites Demonstrations

Hanoi's chief delegate, Xuan Thuy, pointed to hostile demonstrations during Nixon's recent tour of Western European countries as proof that "the peoples of the world are determined not to tolerate the aggressive and cruel actions of the United States in Vietnam."

The Viet Cong and Hanoi delegations denied that the guerrilla attacks were aimed at the civilian population, and asserted the South Vietnamese people's right to "self-defense."

During the post-session news conferences, the U.S. spokesman, Harold Kaplan, characterized the round table meeting as "grim." When the Viet Cong spokesman, Tran Hoai Nam, was later asked whether he concurred, he said: "I wouldn't go so far. The meeting was normal."

Hanoi's spokesman, Nguyen Thanh Le, was also questioned about the Saigon delegate's request for adjournment. "We pay no attention to the croaking of the frogs at the bottom of the well," Le replied.

ROOKIE TAKES STROLL

'Boy, Oh Boy! What A View'

. . . SCHWEICKART ENJOYS IT

The rookie astronaut, recovered from attacks of nausea, stood for 38 minutes on the "front porch" of the moonship, exclaiming again and again at the panorama of curving blue earth below and moon and stars in the black sky above.

Surprise

The spacewalk came as a surprise after Schweickart and Air Force Col. James A. McDivitt transferred for a second time to the lunar module. They rejoined Air Force Col. David R. Scott in the command module after 6½ hours in the moonship.

The three were anxious to get some sleep before the separation and rendezvous of the two spacecraft that will make Friday the most hazardous day of the 10-day flight.

But before they could settle down, ground controllers discovered there were some switches out of place in the lunar module. When they told the crew, it triggered the first sharp exchange of the flight between the astronauts and the ground.

'How Long?'

"How long would it take you to go back up there (into the lunar module) and pull the circuit breakers?" a ground controller asked.

"It'll take about 30 minutes to clear the tunnel, go back up there and pull the circuit breakers out and get back to the CM and that's really going like mad," McDivitt said.

The ground controller went into a lengthy explanation, but McDivitt cut him off.

"I'm telling you, if we're gonna do it we ought to get going on it and not keep talking about it all night," said McDivitt.

He said the crew was anxious to get sleep to be rested for Friday.

11 Minutes

A few minutes later the crew told the ground the circuits were off. It had taken 11 minutes. The spacemen then started their sleep period.

Most of the time McDivitt and Schweickart spent in the lunar module Thursday was taken up with the spacewalk, but the pair found time to make plans to turn the moonship into the first orbiting garbage truck.

McDivitt said he and Schweickart planned to leave accumulated refuse in the lunar module when the craft is abandoned in orbit Friday.

McDivitt made the decision, also, for Schweickart to try an abbreviated spacewalk. Officials canceled plans Wednesday for a more ambitious walk after Schweickart suffered nausea.

Moon Suit

But McDivitt decided to allow the short walk, and Schweickart, wearing the portable life support system astronauts will wear on the moon and connected to the spacecraft by only a thin ribbon of nylon, briefly became a third self-contained satellite in orbit.

He obviously enjoyed himself, joking with his fellow astronauts and snapping pictures like an eager tourist.

At one point during the excitement he called to Scott to stick his head out of the command module hatch for a picture.

"Dave, come on out," he said, as if inviting him for a swim. "Dave, come on out wherever you are."

Schweickart stood in a pair of golden slippers while he was outside the spacecraft. The slippers, attached to the front porch of the lunar module, resemble wooden shoes and were specially designed to hold the spacewalker securely without having to use his hands.

NU STUDENTS STAGE UNUSUAL DEMONSTRATION

University of Nebraska students staged an unusual demonstration Thursday to protest the failure of Gov. Norbert Tiemann's budget recommendations to include funds for expanding Love Memorial Library on Lincoln's city campus. Students set up an outdoor "library annex" in front of the library and solicited signatures on cards asking state senators to appropriate funds for the expansion. (Star Photo)

Constitutional Revision Plan Advances

. . . DESPITE POSSIBLE VETO WARNING BY TIEMANN

Ignoring Gov. Norbert Tiemann's warning of a possible veto, the Legislature's Government and Military Affairs Committee Thursday sent to the floor a bill proposing creation of a constitutional revision commission dominated by the Unicameral.

The measure, LB244, proposes a 19-member commission composed of 10 state senators, six persons named by the governor, and three members appointed by the State Supreme Court.

Tiemann earlier said he would veto the bill if it establishes a commission dominated by one branch of state government.

The committee adopted amendments which not only assure legislative domination, but provide for appointment of a senator as chairman and direct the commission to place "special emphasis" on amendment of the constitution to give the Legislature broad additional powers.

LB244, proposed by Sen. Elvin Adamson of Valentine, won 5-2 approval.

The Legislature would name three senators from each of the three congressional districts to serve on the commission.

A tenth senator would be named at-large, and he would automatically serve as commission chairman.

The commission would study the constitution, and propose amendments to the 1971 Legislature, which, in turn, would determine which recommendations to place on the general election ballot.

Annual Session Plan Sent To Floor; High Court Office Building Proposed

A proposed constitutional amendment providing for annual sessions of the Legislature was dispatched Thursday to the floor of the Unicameral.

In other action, the Government and Military Affairs Committee agreed to seek introduction of a new bill authorizing construction of a separate office building to house the State Supreme Court and the law library.

The bill would authorize the state to enter into a lease-purchase agreement with the City of Lincoln similar to the contract under which the city is to construct a new state office building, Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff explained.

Carpenter said he wants to open sufficient space within the Statehouse to provide offices for state senators and legislative staff members.

The annual legislative sessions proposal, LB527, sponsored by Sen. Roland Luedtke of Lincoln, gained 7-0 approval.

As amended, the proposed constitutional change would limit annual sessions to 100 legislative days, unless extended by a four-fifths vote of the Legislature.

Bills could be carried over from one session to the next.

Luedtke said annual sessions would permit the Legislature to make wiser budgeting decisions, and allow it to react swiftly to any changes in federal programs.

The Legislature must be able to respond to "the trends of change" through a modernized, streamlined operation, he said.

Killed was a proposed constitutional amendment to increase the maximum size of the Legislature from 50 to 100 members.

The bill, LB331, sponsored by Sen. Willard Waldo of De Witt, fell on a 6-0 vote.

Waldo said he believes 60 or 70 members would be the ideal size for the Unicameral at this time. It now numbers 49 members.

An increase in size would permit the Legislature to better distribute its work load, to redistrict more easily after the 1970 federal census, and to reduce the size of legislative districts to the advantage of both senator and voter, Waldo said.

Game Unit 'Likely' To Stay In Lincoln

. . . LOCAL OFFER TO BUILD COMPLEX ANNOUNCED

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

Lincoln city officials Thursday offered to build a $1.3 million headquarters complex for the State Game Commission, and Commission Director Mel Steen said this "makes it very unlikely we'll move from Lincoln."

"The final decision will be made by the commission and the Legislature," Steen said, "but it looks like Lincoln's gilt-edge offer wraps it up."

The commission, meeting in Lincoln, deferred affirmative action and indicated the offers of other communities would still be reviewed.

The Game Commission has been frustrated by constitutional blocks to financing its own building on the University of Nebraska's East Campus, and several outstate communities have endeavoured to induce the commission to move its headquarters.

The Lincoln Chamber of Commerce Thursday informed the commission it stood ready to build the headquarters — either with city or private financing — on the 9.7-acre tract on the East Campus, which the commission acquired in 1965.

The cost of the complex is estimated at $1,815,000 of which $500,000 would come from federal funds.

Through Bonds

Lincoln representatives said the remaining $1,315,000 funding through city or private bonds could be retired in about 15 years through the payment of approximately $150,000 annual rent by the commission, and the building would then be turned over to the commission.

Steen said $150,000 per year was about what the commission had expected to pay.

The director noted the commission "has had legislative approval since 1965 to move out of the State Capitol into other quarters in Lincoln."

Cautioned

However, the Legislature in a resolution last week cautioned the commission against attempting to move out of Lincoln without its permission.

The Lincoln delegation presenting the written offer included Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf, Harry Seward, vice president of the Chamber of Commerce and former Mayor Bennett Martin, chairman of the Lincoln Industrial Development Foundation.

Shortly after Lincoln made its presentation, representatives of North Platte appeared to offer its proposal.

Willing To Build

Mayor Ken Huebner said city interests are willing to finance construction of a headquarters building in their community by "going any route that is satisfactory to you (Game Commission) and within bounds of the statutes."

Huebner noted 14 major Game Commission supervised recreation areas within 100 miles of North Platte, making the city's location in Central Nebraska an ideal spot for the commission.

Steen said the proposals from North Platte and other cities were wonderful, but added, "I don't want to deceive you, the chances are we'll stay in Lincoln."

The Lincoln plan calls for 89,020 square feet of floor space, including a research laboratory, main office building, a maintenance operations section and a sign shop.

New York Times News Summary

Jitters About Franc Send Gold Prices High

(C) New York Times News Service

Paris — The price of gold climbed to record highs in the monetary markets of Europe Thursday on speculation that the franc was about to topple. This was encouraged by the virtual breakdown of French national wage negotiations and the calling of a 24-hour general strike for next week by labor organizations.

Session The Shortest

Paris — At the shortest session since the expanded peace talks began in January, the United States told the North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong that they were responsible for the consequences of the latest attacks on South Vietnam. The talks were broken off by the South Vietnamese because of the absence of a "favorable atmosphere" for discussions. (More on Page 1.)

Attack 'Ominous' Violation

Saigon — Shortly after arriving in Saigon, Defense Secretary Melvin Laird charged that the recent wave of attacks on the cities was an "ominous" violation of the "understanding" with North Vietnam which ended the bombing. "If the attacks continue unabated an appropriate response will be made," Laird said. (More on Page 2.)

Bomb Explodes In Cafeteria

Jerusalem — A terrorist bomb exploded in a cafeteria at Hebrew University in Jerusalem, injuring 29 persons. The explosion which caused great damage came a day after Israeli police announced they had broken up a huge terrorist ring in the city. (More on Page 2.)

Berlin Crisis Said Easing

Berlin — Despite a six-hour closing of the roads to Berlin by the East Germans, there were indications that the latest Berlin crisis was easing. No trucks carrying vital West German exports to Berlin were turned back and the East German press did not carry any threatening editorials.

Smith Takes ABM Position

Washington — The deployment of the Sentinel antiballistic missile system would not disrupt attempts to reach agreement with the Soviet Union on arms control. This position was given to the Senate disarmament subcommittee by Gerard C. Smith, director of the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency.

Appeals Intended As Test

Washington — Two Negro Marines imprisoned for counseling other Marines not to serve in Vietnam, have appealed their sentences. The appeals are intended to test the military's power to punish enlisted men who dissent from the Vietnam war.

Schweickart In Spacewalk

Houston — Having recovered from his nausea, Russell L. Schweickart spent 40 minutes outside the lunar module taking pictures and testing the equipment astronauts will use when they land on the moon. The crew of Apollo 9 also transmitted a 15-minute television show from their spacecraft showing the earth 147 miles below. (More on Page 1.)

Nixon Dealt Defeat

Washington —An attempt by the Nixon administration to change the method of calculating the national debt ceiling was defeated by the House Ways and Means Committee. The rebuff was the first suffered by the new administration and assured the Democratic-controlled Congress that it will be able to review the entire fiscal program next year. (More on Page 2.)

Laird Warns Enemy; Reds Shell 30 Bases

World News

Saigon (AP) — Enemy gunners shelled 30 allied bases overnight, pressing the rocket and mortar campaign that visiting U.S. Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird said Friday could lead to "an appropriate response" from the allies.

But the Communists spared Saigon after a predawn rocket attack against the capital Thursday that killed 25 civilians, wounded more than 70 and drew strong allied protests at the most bitter session to date of the Vietnam peace talks in Paris.

Laird warned Friday on his arrival that if the Communist forces continue attacks on South Vietnamese cities "they must be prepared to accept the consequences.'

18 Hours After

Laird, arriving in Saigon about 18 hours after Thursday's rocket barrage on Saigon, said: "We will not tolerate any enemy escalation of the war."

The defense secretary met later with U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker and Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, U.S. commander in Vietnam, at Saigon's Tan Son Nhut air base to assess the enemy offensive.

U.S. 25th Division infantrymen clashed with enemy troops 43 miles northwest of the capital Thursday and reported killing 51 while losing one dead, one wounded.

Sampan Shot At

Early Friday, U.S. Navy patrol boats detected a sampan loaded with enemy troops trying to cross a river 25 miles northwest of Saigon, and opened fire with machine guns. Twelve enemy were killed and there were no U.S. casualties, the U.S. Command said.

Most of the targets shelled by the enemy overnight were U.S. military bases. They included Da Nang, biggest base north of Saigon; Dong Tam, headquarters of the U.S. 9th Infantry Division 35 miles southwest of Saigon, and Lai Khe, U.S. 1st Infantry Division headquarters, 30 miles northwest of Saigon.

"Over-all casualties and damage were reported as light," the U.S. Command said.

Child Killed

The only major South Vietnamese city reported hit was Da Lat, the central highlands resort 140 miles northeast of Saigon. One child was reported killed and 12 persons wounded.

U.S. headquarters said a number of outposts near populated areas were shelled, causing "a few civilian casualties."

Laird, the man whose report may decide any retaliatory action that President Nixon orders, said he studied dispatches about the Saigon rocket attack as he flew across the Pacific. He declared:

"Such indiscriminate assaults against the civilian population are in my view as secretary of defense an ominous violation of the understanding between us and North Vietnam."

Hanoi Denies It

He referred to what the United States regards as an understanding that North Vietnam would stop shelling South Vietnamese cities in exchange for a halt to the bombing of the North Nov. 1. Hanoi denies there is any such understanding.

Laird also expressed concern over the sharp rise in U.S. casualties in the first week of the enemy's offensive.

The U.S. Command said 453 Americans were killed last week and 2,593 wounded, the heaviest battle toll since the enemy's offensive last May.

Laird said one purpose of his visit to South Vietnam was to study what additional measures may be taken "to shift increasing combat responsibility from the United States to South Vietnam."

"This is not the time to talk about withdrawals," he replied when asked if there would be any early pullout of U.S. forces from South Vietnam.

Gen. Wheeler Along

Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, accompanied Laird.

The U.S. and South Vietnamese commands reported South Vietnamese and enemy casualties also were the highest last week since the week ended May 18.

521 Vietnamese Killed

The South Vietnamese reported 521 killed, 2,072 wounded and 50 missing. Enemy killed in the week totaled 6,752 by Allied computation, but U.S. sources say the figure has since risen to more than 8,000.

Nixon Is Dealt First Defeat

Washington (UPI) — The House Ways and Means Committee dealt President Nixon his first legislative defeat Thursday — scrapping his controversial new concept for counting the national debt.

It rejected Nixon's proposal to exclude Social Security, highway and other trust funds from the public debt ceiling, and modified his request to increase the ceiling by $17 billion.

The committee decided to make the present $365 billion ceiling permanent, but authorized a $12 billion temporary increase. If approved by Congress, the new "temporary" $377 billion limit would become effective immediately, then expire June 30, 1970, when the limit would revert to $365 billion.

No Formal Vote

There was no vote announced, but a source said it was "near unanimous." There was no formal vote on Nixon's proposal to delete trust funds from the debt limit, but it was dropped from consideration after it was apparent it had insufficient support.

Committee Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., will introduce the measure in the House Monday.

Nixon proposed a $17 billion increase in borrowing over the present $365 billion debt ceiling to a new total of $382 billion. But Nixon also wanted to exclude the trust funds from that ceiling, so the new limit would only be $300 billion.

Tradition Upheld

The committee agreed, sources said, to continue the traditional way of counting the debt by including the trust funds under the congressionally-imposed borrowing limit.

The committee returned to a private session to discuss the proposed $17 billion increase.

Nixon's proposal touched off a major controversy among both liberals and conservatives Wednesday when Treasury Secretary David M. Kennedy and Budget Director Robert P. Mayo argued for the new concept of counting the debt.

Conservatives generally did not like what appeared to them as a proposal to lift some congressional control over government spending. Liberals, however, charged the plan would somehow jeopardize the integrity of the Social Security trust fund.

The administration spokesmen argued that the new concept fits into the new "unified" budget concept now in its second year, and would have no effect whatever on the trust funds or actual debt the government owes.

McCarthy Says Nixon Doing OK

South Bend, Ind. (UPI) — Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., unsuccessful candidate for the 1968 Democratic presidential nomination, said Thursday he thinks the Nixon administration has "done all right" since taking office in January.

"Walter Hickel responded to the crisis on the California oil leaks pretty well. The Cabinet generally is pretty good."

He told a news conference that President Nixon's visit to Europe was reassuring to Europeans.

"I think the Europeans were reassured to see that he isn't as bad as people said he was 10 years ago," McCarthy said. "I think it was a positive achievement."

U.S. Deserter From Vietnam Is Sentenced

Ft. Dix, N.J. (AP) — A 30-year-old Army cook was sentenced Thursday to four years imprisonment at hard labor as the first American serviceman convicted of deserting from Vietnam to Sweden.

Spec. 4 Edwin C. Arnett, a slim career soldier, stood impassively as the court-martial sentence was read, but minutes later he was visibly shaken.

In addition to the imprisonment, Arnett was dishonorably discharged, was ordered to forfeit all pay and allowances, and was reduced to the lowest rank.

1969 Soybean Support Price Will Be $2.25

Washington (AP) — The Nixon administration announced Thursday 1969 government price supports on soybeans will be $2.25 a bushel, down 25 cents from $2.50 in effect the last three years.

Agriculture Secretary Clifford M. Hardin, in his first major farm decision, said continuation of increased soybean production could have a "destructive effect" on the industry and producer incomes.

"The lower supports will permit soybean products to compete effectively in the market and thus provide the basis for growth of the industry," Hardin said.

The administration has been under extreme pressure to lower the level of soybean price supports to as little as $2.05 a bushel.

Soybean production recently outstripped demand and department officials predict a carryover next Sept. 1 of 315 million bushels, compared with 167 million bushels last year.

Soybean acreage harvested has increased steadily from 31.6 million acres in 1964 to about 41.6 million last year which produced a record billion-bushel crop.

Time Bomb Hidden In Flower Box Injures 29 In Cafeteria In Jerusalem

Jerusalem (UPI) — A time bomb hidden in a window flower box exploded Thursday in a crowded student cafeteria at Hebrew University in Jerusalem. Twenty-nine persons were hurt, seven seriously.

Arab guerrillas claimed responsibility for the attack, the worst since two persons died in an explosion last month at a crowded Jerusalem supermarket. Police immediately rounded up a score of suspects.

In other incidents Thursday, Egypt and Israel fought a four-hour small arms and machine gun duel across the Suez Canal. At least one Israeli soldier was killed.

At Rammallah, 10 miles north of Jerusalem, a customer was injured when a hand grenade was tossed into an Israeli National Bank branch.

250 In Cafeteria

University authorities said about 250 persons were in the cafeteria, located on the ground floor of the library building, when the blast went off shortly before noon. Some of the injured were cut by jagged pieces of glass as they jumped through shattered windows fearing more explosions.

The large, modern university has about 12,000 students, many from foreign nations. About 1,000 Americans attend the school, but none of them was reported injured.

Minutes after the cafeteria explosion, police blocked roads linking the Arab and Israeli sectors of Jerusalem to head off possible Israeli reprisals against Arab residents of the city. Cars heading toward the Arab sector from the Israeli sector were turned back.

Front Quoted

Baghdad Radio said in its evening newscast it had received notification from the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine that it was responsible for the university blast. The radio said the front would issue an official statement on the attack later.

In other Mideast developments:

—Baghdad Radio monitored in Beirut said a new group of alleged spies has gone on trial in Iraq, and the prosecutor had asked for the death sentence for three of them. The broadcast did not say how many were on trial or whether they included any Jews.

—Damascus Radio reported two Arab mediators began attempts to heal the rift in Syria's leftist leadership. It said Egyptian troubleshooter Hassan Sabri Al-Kholi and Algerian Youth Minister Abdel Kerim Ben Mohammed had lunch with President Noureddin Atassi, leader of the civilian faction in the current power struggle.

Immediate Action Deferred On Local Detoxification Unit

By JOAN LOOKER
Star Staff Writer

Immediate action on a Lincoln detoxification unit for alcoholics was deferred Thursday after nearly 2½ hours of debate by a committee of public officials and people working in alcoholic rehabilitation.

The committee had been appointed to discuss the project.

A steering committee of three was named to explore possible legislation that would make the unit effective, public or private funds available for financing and the possibility of hiring a lawyer to establish a private corporation to support the unit.

Lincoln Salvation Army representatives at the meeting offered their facilities to form a base for a community detoxification unit. The Army officials are to present a detailed estimate of the cost and the staff needed for a unit.

Major C. V. Jewett, said it would be possible to set up a unit, paying from $15,000 to $20,000 for equipment and approximately $50,000 for a staff.

A therapist would be the key man in the operation. He would be assisted by five nurses and doctors who would serve the unit on a part-time basis, Major Jewett said.

He said the Army, which is not equipped for detoxification, had handled 600 people last year in its rehabilitation program.

VA Program

The present unit at the Veterans Hospital has an intensive 14-day program. The 2½-year-old program currently has 14 beds and is expanding, according to Dr. Clarence Hartman, the psychologist in charge of the program.

A three-way program involving the Veterans Administration, the community and graduate students from the University of Nebraska was discussed by Dr. James Cole of the Department of Psychology at the university.

A number of students in clinical psychology are now working at the unit at Veterans Hospital, he said. The students' research and training could be expanded into many fields, but there are not enough channels in Lincoln, Dr. Cole said.

Madison Woman Heads National Pork-Ettes Unit

Omaha — A Nebraska woman was named national president of the Pork-Ettes at the 1969 meeting of the National Pork Producers Council Thursday in Omaha. Mrs. Thelma Boe of Madison replaces Mrs. Russell Jackel of Illinois in the national office.

Other officers elected were Mrs. Ellis King of Kansas, vice president and Mrs. Roy Keppy of Iowa, secretary-treasurer.

In other business during the Pork-Ette annual business meeting five states were awarded charters. States receiving charters were Nebraska, Iowa, Mississippi, Minnesota and Kansas.

'Forcibly Pulled' Hairs Matched Mrs. Davis', FBI Agent Testifies During G.I. Murder Trial

By CRAIG CALLAWAY
Outstate Nebraska Bureau

Grand Island — Hairs taken from the outside of the station wagon in which Mrs. Phyllis Davis was found dead last Aug. 14 Thursday were identified by a Federal Bureau of Investigation agent as having been forcibly pulled from the head of a Caucasian human — and matched those known to have come from the head of Mrs. Davis.

The agent, Morris Clark, from the FBI laboratory in Washington, was brought as a prosecution witness in the first degree murder trial against Mrs. Davis' husband, Thomas F., in Hall County District Court here. Previous testimony has indicated that the hairs were sent to Washington by the Nebraska State Patrol.

Clark testified that the hairs, which had been tinted "British brown," had distorted roots, that is, had been "forcibly removed from the skin." R. M. Van Steenberg, special prosecutor, asked Clark "in other words they were pulled out?" "Yes," Clark said.

In Clark's opinion, he testified, the hairs — which had come from the base of the Davis' station wagon radio aerial and from the outside of its front door — were from the same human head as were comparison hairs clipped from Mrs. Davis' head after her death.

Age Unknown

Under cross-examination by defense counsel John Mitchell, Clark said there was no way to determine whether the hairs were from a male or female nor how old the hair was.

Four other witnesses, all insurance company representatives, were brought by the prosecution. Two testified that they had contacted the Davises about insurance; the other two testified that they were contacted.

The first insurance witness was Dale Spiehs of Grand Island who testified that he met the Davises at a local cafe on Aug. 13, 1968, (the day before Mrs. Davis died) after the Davises contacted him.

Spiehs said that he wrote the Davises mortgage contract policies on both their lives good for $5,000 each. As it was explained to him, Spiehs said, the Davises were entering a contract sale for some real estate with a John Jungclaus and wanted some sort of guarantee of payment for that contract.

Spiehs said that he took a premium from Mrs. Davis that afternoon on the insurance contract. When Spiehs said the name John Jungclaus, Van Steenberg interrupted him asking "do you mean Ham Jungclaus?" "No, Ham wasn't mentioned," Spiehs said.

'Failed In 1966"

John Seery of Grand Island was the next insurance company representative to testify. He said that he tried to sell Davis a life insurance policy in 1966 but failed.

In May of 1968, however, Seery testified, the Davises contacted him and after discussion applied for $50.000 10-year term policies on their lives. But on June 24 Seery was notified by his company headquarters that the policies were disapproved, he said. He also said he did not know why they were disapproved.

During cross-examination Mitchell produced the original policy application form that Seery had sent in to his company and showed Seery that he — Seery — according to what he said on the policy had suggested the $50,000 amounts.

Another insurance representative, Stewart Pascoe, of Grand Island also testified that he contacted the Davises first. That was in May, 1968, he said, and like Spiehs he said he made no sale at first.

But a couple of weeks later Davis told him he wanted an appointment, Pascoe testified. Pascoe said he wound up writing $50,000 policies on the lives of Thomas and Phyllis Davis.

Policy Effective June 24

The policy on Mrs. Davis went into effect June 24 but Davis' was not effective until July 22, Pascoe said. Davis had had to take a glucose tolerance test because of blood sugar content, according to Pascoe.

That policy contained a double indemnity clause making it worth $100,000 per life in case of an accident. Pascoe testified — but under Mitchell's cross-examination Pascoe said he was the one who suggested the double indemnity clause.

Mrs. Irene Boehnke of Grand Island testified that she wrote a "trip insurance" policy on the lives of Mr. and Mrs. Davis, effective Aug. 8, 1968, for $50,000 each. The policy was good for 15 days, and Davis paid her a cash premium of $54, Mrs. Boehnke said.

In each of the three cases where policies were written, Van Steenberg asked the representative if payment had been made to Davis, but in each case Mitchell objected and was sustained.

Spiehs' testimony had to be interrupted for 10 minutes when he said that he was having angina pains.

Youth Interferes With Police After Basketball Game

An unidentified youth was apprehended Thursday night after he interfered with an arrest following the Lincoln-High-Northeast High tournament basketball game at Pershing Municipal Auditorium, police said.

Another youth had been chased and caught by an officer for allegedly striking a Lincoln High teacher. But the youth escaped when the second boy interfered, police said.

A second policemen was struck and lost his hat during the incident, according to police.

Soybean Producers Form Association

Fremont—Some 100 soybean producers approved the organization of the Nebraska Soybean Association at a meeting here Thursday.

The association was formed following exploratory meeings in November and December 1968.

The purpose of the association will be to develop new markets for soybeans and seek other ways for including soybean utilization to prevent the build-up of a soybean surplus.

Nebraska is one of the last major soybean producing states to form a state association. A minimum of 200 members will be required for the state group to affiliate with the American Soybean Association and 400 will be required for Nebraska to have a vote on the national board of directors.

R. L. Wagner, Hartington, who has spearheaded efforts to form an association was elected president.

Edwin Damkroger, DeWitt, was named vice president and Wendell Starr, Hastings, secretary-treasurer. All three of the officers are members of the newly named board of directors.

The other four directors are Warren Renter, Plainview; Arly Horst, Wisner; Eugene Diers, Fremont; and Emil Sobota, Schuyler.

Resident Agent

The six directors named on the basis of geographical districts and the one director-at-large were elected for staggered terms of one, two and three years. The association approved articles of incorporation calling for a resident agent to be located at Lincoln.

The board of directors will adopt a set of bylaws under which the organization will operate.

Dr. Donald G. Hanway, Agronomy Department chairman, University of Nebraska, said tht formation of the soybean association was a significant step forward for Nebraska agriculture. The Nebraska soybean crop contributed more than $42 million to the state economy in 1967 and in 1968 more than 18 million bushels of soybeans were produced in the state, Dr. Hanway pointed out.

Cayenne, Guyana (AP) — A single-stage Belier III rocket blasted off the new French launching area in a test of facilities which will serve later satellite carriers. Officials said the launching was a success. The site was built for both the French and the European space program.

Mrs. Gaffney To Head York Reformatory

York (AP) — Mrs. Earl (Madolyn) Gaffney, administrative assistant at the Girls Training School at Geneva, has been named superintendent of the Nebraska Reformatory for Women.

She will succeed Mrs. Gladys Ellenson, reformatory officials said Thursday.

A native of Loup City, Mrs. Gaffney has been at the Geneva Home for Girls for 13 years, the past nine as administrative assistant.

Mrs. Ellenson resigned the York post after 9½ years. The resignation is effective July 1.

Mrs. Ellenson came to the York institution from the Geneva school where she had been an assistant superintendent.

Young Ashland Mother Dies, 2 Hurt As Vehicle Hits Tree

An 18-year-old Ashland woman, Candice Sue Hoffman, was killed Thursday morning when the car in which she was riding slammed into a tree on U.S. 6 about a half mile west of Waverly.

Treated for minor injuries at Bryan Memorial Hospital were Mrs. Hoffman's husband, Harold, 18, and their six-month old daughter Georgia.

Deputy Lancaster County Attorney Ronald Lahners said that the Hoffman vehicle apparently went out of control while passing a truck and went into the ditch before hitting the tree.

Lahners said the vehicle's windshield was spattered with mud while passing the other westbound truck.

Peru Driver Dies In Crash; Passenger Hurt

Nebraska City (AP) — A Peru man was killed Thursday and his father injured when their car struck a bridge abutment eight miles north of Nebraska City of U.S. 73-75.

The State Patrol said the victim was William A. Tynon, 26, of Peru, driver of the car. His father, Andrew Tynon, the passenger in the car, was reported in fair condition in St. Mary's Hospital Nebraska City.

The Tynon family operates a grain company in Peru.

The death brings Nebraska's 1969 highway death toll to 62 compared with 75 on this date a year ago.

Injuries Suffered In Fremont Blast Fatal To Hamblin

Fremont (AP) — Funeral services will be Saturday for a 45-year-old Fremont man who died of burns suffered last week in an explosion at his home.

James Hamblin died in a hospital Wednesday night. He had been on the critical list for a week.

Fremont Fire Marshal John Primrose said the explosion and a small fire which followed resulted from a natural gas leak at the rear of the house.

NWU Students Stage Mud-In

Dismayed by muddy shoes, a group of Nebraska Wesleyan University students Thursday staged a "mud-in" to point up a need for sidewalks on part of the NWU campus.

Specifically at issue was a 150-yard stretch of mud near the Olin Science Building. About 50 students formed a line along the muddy path Thursday noon and invited NWU administrators to try out the boggy ground for themselves.

Some carried banners, with inspirational messages varying from "stamp out mud" to "S.O.S. (save our shoes)."

University officials responded by promising that a temporary boardwalk would be erected above the mud. After the ground thaws later in the spring, they said, a permanent sidewalk will be constructed.

LIVING COLOR PORTRAITS ★ ★ ★ LIVING

EVENTS

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Along with Governor Norbert Tiemann and his "business-like" approach to state government are candidates for the City Council whose platform amounts to the same thing. Quite frankly, we have grown a little tired with the theme and believe it is about time to set the record straight.

To begin with, there is no magic about private business. It is subject to success, failure, integrity and dishonesty to the same degree that is found in government. A man in private enterprise is no better or no worse as a result of that fact alone than the man in government or public life.

And if the records were set forth side by side, the graft, cheating and inefficiency of private enterprise would far exceed that found in the public sector of the economy. When has there been any real dishonesty found in government anywhere in Nebraska?

Frequently the ranks of private enterprise are sprinkled with individuals convicted of income tax evasion, of firms found guilty of unfair labor practices. The ranks of private citizens are swelled with those who have been disillusioned or cheated at the hands of private enterprise.

Government was the first to crack the barrier of fair employment, to enact a minimum wage and to live by a prescribed code of conduct. It is a batch of nonsense to state or imply that right weighs more heavily on the side of private enterprise.

Let us then look at the objectives of private enterprise and government. The two are not the same and the person who wants to make them look-alikes doesn't know the first thing about political science.

Private enterprise is profit-making and all things are made subject to that. Government is a service institution and should make all things subject to that.

So what difference does that make? It makes a tremendous difference. The difference is in your approach to people and to the job you are doing.

The idea in government is to serve the public, to give to the citizens of the governmental subdivision you serve the kind of performance and programs they want to the very best of your ability.

Service and profit simply do not go together as theories applied to the practice of everyday life. In government, an administrator considers a matter from the point of view of its general public benefit, its need by people and their ability to afford it.

In private enterprise, a matter is considered from the point of view of whether a profit can be made. Carried to its purely logical conclusion, a business approach to government would really mean the dismantling and destruction of government because it cannot possibly make a profit.

It is further a mistake to assume that good administrators are found only in private enterprise. There are some lousy administrators in private enterprise and some outstanding ones in government, and vice versa.

The whole purpose here is not to discredit private enterprise in any way. The only point is to demonstrate to and convince people of the fact that a "business-like" approach to government is largely a lot of nonsense.

This is important for two reasons. For one, people should not be elected to office for this reason because it is in no way a qualification and cannot possibly be the basis for future performance.

Have you ever wondered why people elected on a "business-like" platform never quite turn out that way after they are in office? The reason is that it is impossible, that government is not what they thought it was, whether this fact consciously dawns on them or not.

Finally, the distinctions here are important to understand if government is to have the public confidence and support to which it is entitled. It certainly cannot have this if it is constantly and fallaciously portrayed as inferior to private enterprise.

Wait On Exemptions

The plea of farm interests for preferential treatment under the state's fledgling tax system opens up a can of worms as far as erosion of the tax base and it should be shoved aside as should any other pursuit that seeks a violation of the principles of equity in taxation.

What is sought, under LB589, is to exempt farm machinery from the sales and use tax. The bill was heard this week by the Legislature's Revenue Committee and held for later action.

Proponents of the bill told the committee that such an exemption would be proper since the sales tax was designed as a consumer's tax and not as a producer's tax. Farm machinery is used for production purposes, as much so as feed, seed and fertilizer — which are now exempt from the sales tax — they said.

Righteously, if not properly, representatives of labor, industry and some businesses before the committee suggested sales tax exemptions for production equipment used in their respective segments of the economy if an exemption is granted on the sale of farm machinery.

The state tax commissioner's office has suggested that enactment of LB589 would cost the state $2.4 million a year under a two per cent sales tax. What would the cost be if additional items were added to the list of exemptions? It would probably mean a hike in either the sales or income tax rate.

This is a poor time to tamper with a tax base which is as yet unproven. Exemptions in addition to those already written in the law, if they are to come, should wait until they are justified by experience.

Future Hangs On Partnership

The idea of a partnership between government and people is not new but it remains a valid concept. It seems to be the gospel preached in Western Nebraska by State Engineer Marvin Nuernberger.

The Nebraska Department of Roads, he told an audience in Alliance, has had some shortcomings in the past but is now harnessed to the future.

"We are ready to go," he said, "if you, the people, through your state senators are willing to face up to the problems, point the direction and set the speed."

There is no other way in which Nebraska is going to meet the challenge of an adequate streets and highways program. The Department of Roads can and will provide the leadership and the technical force to get the job done but vital resources have to be provided by the public.

The public has to want a good street and highway system and be willing to make some sacrifice for it. Good leadership is no more important than adequate financial backing and one without the other spells failure.

If Nebraskans are willing to provide the financial resources, the department is ready, willing and eager to provide the other necessary ingredients of progress in the field of transportation. A test of the public attitude toward all this will be provided in the Legislature when senators determine the fate of a well planned and broadly based improvement program for the state and its governmental subdivisions.

Japan Looks To Expo 70

OSAKA, Japan — In the midst of wars and threats of war, the sound of gunfire echoing across Asia, this island naton is preparing for, of all things, a world's fair. With a little luck and a budget of $150 million, a fair participated in by present count 63 nations will rise 12 months hence from what is today a muddy ravine 10 miles north of this sprawling industrial city.

Expo 70 is a symbol of Japan's coming of age in the postwar era. Approved by the Bureau of International Expositions, it will mark the first time an Asian nation has held such a fair.

For all the difficulties of 1970 as a year of decision for Japan, there is an upsurge of pride in a venture that will be the topping for a recovery seldom if ever seen before.

The growing conviction that Japan is destined to be the leader of Asia and a power in shaping the course of world events is in the air here. For all the wild uproar of the students, the militance of the left and the uncertain structure of Japan's political life, it is happening. The statistics come reeling out to show Japan taking third place in production behind the U.S.A. and the U.S.S.R.

Yet, at the same time there are troubling doubts. The rise has been so rapid, the success so great, that the fear is of reprisals and rivalries cutting across the soaring upward curve of every index.

As with Britain, that other island nation, in her heyday Japan must trade to live. She must add the value of her skills and her industry to the raw materials she imports. And it is with America as her principal trading partner, the balance of exports and imports between the two being just about equal, that the doubts arise.

This reporter has talked with industrial leaders in a half dozen fields, and they see disturbing signs of a determination to limit or even keep out Japanese-manufactured products. They acknowledge Japan's own protectionism — 121 items under some form of protection, conspicuously specialized fruits and vegetables. But they argue the need for some mutual understanding before the drift to government-imposed quotas goes so far that it ends in political recrimination and a break in the beginning partnership that can mean so much to the two nations that front on the Pacific.

In the view of this observer, the threat of a developing quota system, the protection of industry behind tariff barriers in the pattern that helped to bring on depression in 1930, ranks second only to control of the nuclear arms race as a factor for peace. If the non-communist world falls into this kind of closed-door rivalry, the end can only be disastrous.

Here in Osaka, is a striking example of what it can mean. Matsushita Electric sounds like an American success story. Founded in 1918 by K. Matsushita, it went into the manufacture of radio sets in 1931 and into television, stereo and other electronics after the second world war. Today it has a volume of $1.2 billion a year which is continually rising, selling in 121 countries with plants in 11 countries, of which 10 are developing nations.

Matsushita's export total last year was $243 million with 9 per cent going to the United States. This was in TV sets — Matsushita claims to have developed the first small portable set and is soon coming out with a portable nine-inch screen color TV — radios and component parts sold to American assemblers.

The roughly $120 million moving into the American market must be a small share of that market. But under the anti-dumping law, an investigation has been started, with the charge that Matsushita is selling in the United States below the price charged to the Japanese consumer. Officials of the company contend that the investigation fails to take into account costs in the Japanese market that equalize the home and the export price.

An affirmative finding under the law could shut the firm out of at least part of the American market. The political spin-off on this sort of thing is not hard to imagine — low-cost Japanese labor, the sweated Asian, the yellow peril of another inflammatory time. Wages in Japan are said, with roughly a 10 per cent increase annually, to be on a level with those of Italy.

The theme of Expo 70 marking Japan's rebirth is "Progress and Harmony for Mankind." With shooting wars and trade wars threatening to make a mockery of harmony and put an end to all progress, this has a rather hollow sound. Nevertheless, as the construction gangs attack that muddy ravine, Japan is putting a big stake on the belief that 1970 will be a year of peace.

The Old Trucks

Greenwood, Neb.

Sure, all farmers have old beat-up trucks. Governor Tiemann was quoted, in regard to the inspection regulations, as saying that drivers with old pick-up trucks in rural areas complained that it wasn't worth it to fix them up for inspection. They end up going down the highways. I have looked over the accident record, and how many of these beat-up trucks were involved?

Just what is a farmer to do? He has the last road on the priority list to be fixed. Since Mr. Tiemann likes to make deals, suppose all the farmers replace their old trucks with new ones. Then will he grant them the right, when their trucks are ruined on these unsightly country roads, to sue the state or the county to get them fixed again?

Have any of the legislators or Mr. Tiemann tried driving down our so-called roads the last month or two, or even last summer? I'd love to show them around. You get high center going across an old wooden bridge, a plank files up and knocks out a light, and these things happen every day.

People living north of Greenwood have a one-way route to town. Sometimes that road is closed and there isn't another bridge to cross until you go to Ashland or over by Waverly on the Fremont highway. Sure, Lancaster County has a swell drainage district until they get out of the county. In Cass County we have one bridge across Salt Creek. Greenwood is isolated from the north. But that poor farmer in his beat-up old truck can drive around some way to get there. He can go to Ashland or Waverly and come back to Greenwood.

I wish the people making the laws would stick to what is causing the accidents and not just be looking for the almighty dollar in inspection fees. They want the money coming in and are not too concerned about safety.

Let's leave the old beat-up trucks alone. They know their place. And let's get the roads fixed.

Sterilization Law

Lincoln, Neb.

I would like to express my opinion about the sterilization law that so many people think should never have been passed and are now trying to get changed.

The Legislature should check on some of the patients leaving the Beatrice home without being sterilized and find out what has happened to them and the children they have had. They should see if they are supporting themselves and the children and if they are adequately cared for.

There is one case in particular that has been getting so much publicity. I wonder where the eight children are and who is furnishing their support?

I was suprised to read that the Nebraska Association for Retarded Children, the Beatrice State Home Legislative Committee and the Governor's Citizens Committee on Mental Retardation are all in favor of this bill's being abolished. Are they going to be willing to take all the responsibility for these patients who are to be dismissed?

How many tax dollars are spent each year running around all over the country to bring back patients who have left the institution? Is the trend in our state today to open all institution doors?

Nebraska's sterilization law was never enforced. More patients left the homes not sterilized than those who were. I say, pass a new sterilization law with no loopholes.

Shining Example

Lincoln, Neb.

Just an observation. I just can't understand that mean old Legislature's being so naughty and bullheaded as to want qualified people to head up state departments.

So what if McManus and maybe even Dennis don't meet the qualifications for their jobs? Neither did Governor Tiemann and look what he's done. T. D.

Civilian And Military Crime Discrimination

WASHINGTON — A blistering Army memo has accused the State Department of allowing American civilians in Vietnam to get away with crimes that bring severe punishment to military offenders.

Americans in mufti have been involved in more than 125 cases of currency manipulation alone. They have traded dollars for piasters on the black market, then converted the piasters back into dollars at the official exchange rate, thus almost doubling their money.

Civilians have also been caught stealing government supplies and selling them on the black market. One civilian employe actually managed to peddle more than $150,000 worth of heavy equipment that belonged to the taxpayers.

In almost every case, the American embassy has protected the civilians from prosecution; yet servicemen involved in the same or similar cases were court-martialed.

The State Department has insisted upon turning civilian violators over to the South Vietnamese government, which has been reluctant to prosecute U.S. nationals.

"We must recognize," notes the memo, "that Vietnamese judicial officers rely on fines or forfeitures imposed in cases handled by their offices for a substantial portion of their income. If a case offers little or no opportunity of financial return, they evidence little interest in the offenses committed by American civilians . . .

The Army memo, stamped "confidential" and signed by Col. Robert H. Ivey of the Judge Advocate's staff, calls upon the State Department to permit the Armed Forces to discipline civilian violators.

"Because there is currently no such figure of authority in Vietnam, as far as civilian contractor employes are concerned, some members of this group exhibit a total disregard for the rule of law . . ." the memo alleges. "It is urgently necessary for the United States to clean its own house as far as civilian contractor employe offenders are concerned. Our present failure to act effectively in this area is causing grave damage to our effort here in Vietnam, and to our national prestige generally."

NOTE: Lester Wolff, a quiet Democratic congressman from Great Neck, N.Y., was so incensed over the leniency he found toward civilians during a visit to Vietnam last fall that he brought pressure upon the State Department to change its policies. Bill Rogers, the new secretary of state, is expected to do so.

President Now Seeking Military Reappraisal; Many Overseas Bases No Longer Important

NEW YORK — The really important thing in Washington today is not what President Nixon has said on television about his European tour, but what he has done privately to bring about a fundamental reappraisal of America's military expenditures, manpower and bases overseas.

Before he went to Europe, President Nixon ordered a review of the nation's world stretegy, its security policies and priorities — and this is now going forward quietly under the direction of Secretary of State Rogers, Deputy Secretary of Defense David R. Packard, and Nixon's White House security aide, Dr. Henry A. Kissinger.

The questions before these men and their aides make the recent publicity about the European trip sound like a series of diplomatic and social notes:

How, Nixon is asking his aides, can the nation get enough funds to deal with its social and economic problems at home unless it can get an accommodation on Vietnam, a safe reduction in the military budget and an arms control arrangement with the Soviet Union?

Even if it cannot get an honorable peace in Vietnam and a military arms agreement with Moscow, can it not make substantial savings on military men and bases overseas without taking unacceptable military risks?

There has been a fundamental difference of opinion about these questions for years — the argument over the vast costs of the anti-ballistic missile system is only the latest case in point — and it still exists under President Nixon. The new point is that Nixon is now forcing a major review of the big questions, and insisting that, even if the big questions about ending the Vietnam war and reaching an agreement with the Soviets on the control of military arms cannot be resolved, it is still important to eliminate unnecessary overseas military manpower and bases.

This has been obvious for a long time. The United States now has about 3,450,000 men under arms. About half of them — a little more than 1.4 million—are overseas: in the Vietnam war area, about 616,000; in the support-areas of Okinawa, Japan, the Philippines, Formosa, South Korea, Guam and the other Pacific Islands, about 280,000 men; and in Europe, more than 320,000, about 250,000 of them in Germany.

But outside these critical areas, including the Sixth Fleet in the Mediterranean, there are literally hundreds of bases that were important and even essential 10 or 15 years ago and go on using men and money though the reasons for their existence no longer exist.

A great many of these bases were created to deal with international political problems and technological requirements of 20 years ago, most of them connected with the limitations of airplanes of that period. For example, Washington needed the Azores as a ferry base in the last war for aircraft of limited range; it needs the Azores no longer, but the old arrangements go on.

The U.S. needed the nuclear submarine and aircraft bases in the Iberian Peninsula when it had missiles of a range limited to about 1,200 miles, but as it brought in new and longer range missiles, the problem of the Spanish bases changed.

Similarly, Washington has a communications system today based on the technology of a decade or two ago. Now, for its open propaganda and its sophisticated secret communications with their codes and "scramblers," it can send stronger signals on more modern equipment much farther than before. It no longer needs the same network of bases, all of which, incidentally, create political problems.

Yet most of these obsolete or obsolescent bases go on, costing money and in many places creating resentment. The most dramatic of these now are in Spain, where the Franco government is trying to prove that U.S. bases there are not only essential but more valuable to use than ever before, whereas modern submarine, missile, and communications technology has reduced their former utility.

This is the sort of thing the European and Asian ambassadors in Washington are really interested in this week. No doubt they watched President Nixon's report on the European trip, but it is the movement of American policy, and power, and technology that really commands their attention, for they are interested in what he will do with power in the future, rather than in what he did with words in Europe last week.

Conflict-Of-Interest Bill Changed, Advanced

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

The Legislature Thursday greatly reduced the possibility of complaints being filed under its conflict-of-interest bill, then gave the bill 29-0 first round approval.

On a voice vote, lawmakers approved an amendment which provides that any person who makes "false charges" of conflict-of-interest shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and imprisoned for three to six months.

The amendment was proposed by Sen. Elvin Adamson of Valentine in order to head off unfounded charges against officers or employes of state government and public power districts.

The bill, LB75, originally provided for the misdemeanor penalty to be applied against anyone who made "repeated" false charges to the proposed Conflicts of Interest Committee or Board of Ethics.

Apparent Effect

In effect, it would appear, the bill now subjects any person filing a complaint to imprisonment if he is unable to prove the charge.

Sen. Rick Budd of Nebraska City, chief sponsor of the bill, told newsmen he fears the amendment will render LB75 almost inoperative.

"To serve its real purpose, a person should be able to file a complaint," Budd said.

"What we tried to do was to have a provision which would get rid of harrassment from repeated false charges.

"Now, we have made it so tight that we'll not have many people go over to file complaints. It all but takes away the possibility of having people question anything."

False Charge

Under the bill, a false charge would not be revealed to the public anyway, Budd noted.

The amendment may also make it impossible for a senator, or other governmental employe, to utilize the provision which now permits him to request an investigation of rumors which might affect himself in order to prove them false, Budd agreed.

If the senator or employe were cleared of the charges, he might then be subjected to imprisonment for making a false charge against himself.

Budd objected to the amendment prior to its adoption, and Sen. Henry Pedersen Jr., of Omaha was then turned down when he proposed an amendment restricting the misdemeanor penalty to those who knowingly made false charges.

"No Complaints"

Without such an amendment, Pedersen said, "there will be no complaints . . . we will never have any effort to reveal possible conflict of interst."

Supporting Pedersen's proposal were Budd and Sens. Ellen Craft of North Platte, J. James Waldron of Callaway, Theodore Wenzlaff of Sutton and Ramey Whitney of Chappell.

A number of senators said they want to be sure that LB75 will not open the way to a series of unfounded and false charges of conflict-of-interest which would prove damaging to senators and government officials, even though they are rejected as false.

Budd said he plans to visit with his colleagues in the hope of resolving the matter in further floor action.

Withdrew Amendment

Earlier, Budd withdrew a proposed amendment which would have exempted national stocks, government bonds and mutual funds from disclosure provisions of the act. Such an amendment had been favored by Sen. Ramey Whitney of Chappell.

LB75 establishes a code of ethics for the legislative branch, directs executive agencies to establish their own codes, and provides for limitted disclosure of financial interest.

Affected are legislative and executive officials, public power district officers and all such employes salaried at more than $6,000 a year.

Omaha Council's Stand Asked On Urban Renewal

Sen. Wayne Schreurs of Seward Thursday asked the Omaha City Council to declare its position on a controversial bill which would create a limited urban renewal authority in South Omaha.

Schreurs, who made the request in a letter, noted that "some of us at the Legislature are a little reluctant to force this on Omaha unless we can be assured that the city council favors this action."

The bill, LB190, was introduced by Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff and would also authorize cities to set up limited urban renewal authorities on specific projects without an election.

Specifically, the bill would also authorize urban renewal on a 333-acre industrial tract in South Omaha.

Schreurs, who said he was "concerned" with the bill, said that the council's position ought to be public knowledge.

He said he "would also like to know what the action of the council might be if the bill was amended to say 'the Omaha council may (rather than shall) create a limited renewal authority.'"

Public Employes Labor Bill Set Aside For More Study

Major legislation to provide the legal machinery for resolution of labor disputes between public employes and their governmental employers Thursday was set aside by the Legislature for further study.

The bill, LB15, was bracketed on select file at the request of its sponsor, Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff.

Provisions of the bill need additional study, including "information on points of law," Carpenter explained.

Further action on the proposal may be delayed for 10 days or two weeks, he said.

LB15 would extend the jurisdiction of the Court of Industrial Relations to cover all labor disputes involving public employes. The court now has limited jurisdiction in disputes involving employes of public power districts and other public utilities.

The bill would guarantee to all public employes the rights of organization and negotiation, but retains the statutory prohibition against strikes by public employes.

A number of amendments to the measure are pending.

Local Grain Storage Urged

A resolution urging governmental feed grain storage on the farm or in local elevators close to the farm was adopted 40-0 by the Legislature Thursday.

Sen. Thomas C. Kennedy of Newman Grove introduced the resolution. He said he plans a trip to Washington and desires the resolution to bolster his efforts to encourage the U.S. Department of Agriculture to follow such storage policy.

The alternative, he indicated, is storage in huge seaport terminals.

The resolution said Nebraska and the Midwest have proved to be good areas for grain storage because of the dry climate and minimal worm and insect problems.

Location of the strategic stockpile of feed grains in the Midwest also enables it to be moved in any direction to meet emergency needs. Spreading the storage also makes the stockpile less vulnerable to destruction, the resolution said.

"We have to explain this to the new administration," Sen. Kennedy suggested.

2 Committees Introduce Bills

A pair of committee bills reached the Legislature Thursday, raising to 1,310 the number of bills introduced at the current session.

The Education Committee delivered LB1309, providing that boundaries of junior college districts shall coincide with school district boundaries.

The Budget Committee introduced LB1310, adding the Nebraska Oil and Gas Conservation Commission to the agencies required to turn 15% of their fee collections over to the state general fund.

Leave Of Absence Bill Dies

By Associated Press

For the second time in two days, Nebraska's Legislature killed a bill on final reading Thursday by failing to give it majority approval.

Axed on a 20-25 count was a measure which would have assured that persons elected or appointed to the State Legislature or other governmental position would be granted leaves of absence by their employers to cover necessary absence for the public service.

The bill, LB225, stemmed in part from a publicized dispute between Sen. Don Elrod, a printer, and his newspaper employer, the Grand Island Independent, over Elrod's employment status in view of his re-election to the Legislature last November.

Although sometimes referred to as the "Elrod bill," LB225 actually was sponsored by Sens. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff, Richard Marvel of Hastings and Fred Carstens of Beatrice.

LB225 was put to a vote twice Thursday, once with the emergency clause attached, and again with the emergency clause stricken. Both times the tally was 20 in favor, 25 opposed.

A similar fate Wednesday befell a bill to make more generous the provisions of Nebraska's Workmen's Compensation law.

How senators voted Thursday when LB225 failed of passage on final reading:

Against (25): Adamson, Batchelder, Budd, Burbach, Clark, Craft, Duis, Harsh, Hasebroock, Holmquist, Johnson, Kennedy, Knight, Kokes, Kremer, Nore, Reynolds, Stull, Wallwey, Warner, Wenzlaff, Whitney, Wiltse, Wylie, Ziebarth.

Absent or not voting (4): Carstens, Klaver, Schmit, Waldo.

Seven bills successfully crossed the final reading barrier Thursday and were sent to the governor for signature into law.

Included was a Carpenter bill placing an even more restrictive limitation on the gifts and favors which liquor manufacturers, distributors or wholesalers may supply to customers. Present law permits giving away advertising items costing no more than 10 cents each. Carpenter's LB85, approved 38-8, eliminates this exception and prohibits giving away anything of value, with no exceptions.

Another bill passed Thursday, LB196, provides that health insurance policies shall cover medical treatment given by osteopaths, chiropractors and podiatrists, as well as the usual services of medical doctors and optometrists.

Bills passed Thursday (E—emergency clause):

LB42 (Carpenter) — Requiring notification of county assessor when construction of a building at a cost of more than $1,000 is contemplated, unless building permit also is required. (E) 40-1.

LB85 (Carpenter) — Removing from law an exception to the prohibition against liquor manufacturers, distributors or wholesalers giving anything of value to customers. 38-8.

LB193 (Proud) — Prohibiting special service districts from levying any special assessment after district has been annexed or merged. 47-0.

LB194 (Proud) — Prohibiting special service districts from levying taxes after districts have been annexed by a city or village. 47-0.

LB196 (Simpson, Hasebroock, Luedtke) — Providing that medical insurance policies shall cover the services of osteopaths, chiropractors and podiatrists, as well as medical doctors and optometrists. 40-4.

LB322 (Waldo, Carstens) — Permitting copy of title to serve as evidence of ownership for registration of cabin trailers. 47-0.

LB383 (Carpenter) — Deleting a penalty provision in law requiring listing of personal property for taxation. 46-0.

Douglas County Merger Proposal Sent To Floor

A proposed constitutional amendment authorizing the Legislature to merge Douglas County and its municipalities into a single governmental unit was sent Thursday to the floor for debate.

LB309, amended to give the Legislature permissive authority, rather than a mandate, to merge governmental units in Douglas County if approved by the statewide electorate, won 6-0 committee approval.

All municipalities in the county, with the exception of Boys Town, would be included in such a merger.

Spokesmen for Millard, Ralston and Elkhorn strongly objected to the proposal.

Inter-governmental cooperation is already in effect in the area through a three-county metropolitan area planning agency, Millard Mayor Harry Anderson said.

If the merger is good for the communities of Douglas County, then it should be proposed in each of the 93 counties, Ralston Mayor Wendell Kronberg told the committee.

Douglas County Commissioner Jim Murphy also opposed the bill, suggesting that the issue be subjected to "an in-depth study" before it is submitted to a statewide vote.

Sen. Sam Klaver of Omaha, chief sponsor of LB309, said govermental merger in Douglas County would save the taxpayers money.

City Councilman Arthur Bradley noted that 92.6% of Douglas County's residents live in Omaha.

If the constitutional amendment were approved, he said, the Legislature could give a merger intensive study before it acted, and could even submit its proposed action to the electorate in Douglas County for approval.

Also sent to the floor by the Government and Military Affairs Committee was LB459, another proposed constitutional amendment which would pave the way for the first reapportionment of State Supreme Court districts since 1920.

Killed was a legislative resolution, LR12, which would have placed the Unicameral on record in full support of the actions of Commander Lloyd Bucher and the crew of the U.S.S. Pueblo.

Johnson Won't Seek Re-Election As State Auditor

State Auditor Ray Johnson will not seek re-election, the Legislature's Salaries and Claims Committee was told Thursday.

Sen. William Swanson of Lincoln, who has introduced a bill to increase the auditor's salary from $12,500 to $16,000 in 1971, said Johnson has assured him he will not seek another term.

Johnson, who will be 76 this month, was first elected to the auditor's post in 1938. His present term expires in January, 1971.

Gang Broken Up

Genoa, Italy (AP) — Police said they have broken up a gang of art thieves and recovered hundreds of antiquities worth $800,000.

Reaction To County Pay Bill Mixed

A bill increasing minimum salaries for county officials drew mixed reaction Thursday before the Legislature's Salaries and Claims Committee.

General support for the measure, LB580, came from the Nebraska Association of County Officials, representing the county boards of commissioners and supervisors.

But representatives of county clerks, registers of deeds and sheriffs urged the minimums be set higher by the committee than proposed by the county board-dominated association.

Salaries of elected county officials are set by the county boards, but the bill proposed new minimum salaries for the various classes of counties.

Expressed Surprise

Arnold Ruhnke, executive secretary of the county officials association, said he had hoped there would be general acceptance for the bill and expressed surprise at the dissatisfaction expressed at the hearing.

"It's your decision," he told the committee, "whether the matter of salaries is left to local county control or the state sets county salaries."

However, other county officials said wages in some of the smaller counties are so low that 75% of the elected officials must augment their income with outside jobs.

County boards were criticized for not taking workloads and qualifications of the office into consideration in setting salaries of the elected officers.

One official said a seven-member board secretly wrote on slips of paper what "each thought I was worth," and then averaged the ballot results to set a salary.

Salary Minimums

The present and proposed annual salary minimums by classes of counties (based on population):

Class I (less than 3,000 population), present $4,000, proposed, $4,500; Class II (3,000-8,999), $4,100, $5,400; Class III (9,000-15,999), $4,200, $6,000; Class IV (16,000-19,999), $5,000, $7,500; and Class V (20,000-59,999), $5,400, $8,000.

On another bill, LB71, proposing to increase the salary of the clerk of the municipal courts in Lincoln and Omaha from $7,000 to $12,000 annually, the measure's introducer, Sen. Henry Pedersen of Omaha, offered an amendment that would permit the court to set the salary of the clerk.

The committee adjourned without action on all salary bills heard Thursday. Others included:

—LB572, increasing the governor's salary from $18,000 to $35,000 annually.

—LB570, increasing the state auditor's salary from $12,500 to $16,000 annually.

—LB629, permitting the local governing body to set the salaries of the judge and clerk for municipal courts outside of Douglas and Lancaster Counties.

NSIA To Renew Attack On Dr. Miller?

By United Press International

All indications were Thursday the Nebraska School Improvement Association (NSIA) would renew its attack on State Education Commissioner Floyd Miller Friday at the meeting of the State Board of Education.

NSIA Executive Secretary S. H. Brauer Jr. said he plans to present to the board a report drawn up by attorneys for the group after an "investigation" of the State Department of Education and Miller's handling of it.

Brauer presented an extremely critical report of Miller's work to the board at its meeting in Omaha last month.

Brauer would not say what was in the statement he plans to submit, except that "it is what we feel is the basis for the State Board of Education to take a closer look at what is happening in the department."

Up To Board

He said it would be up to the board "to see whether they can correct the situation without a shakeup in personnel."

Board President Alan Burkhardt of Norfolk said he did not know what was in the statement Brauer would present and did not know what the board would do.

"If there are serious charges against Dr. Miller then we'll have to take them up," he said.

Letter Sent

A letter Brauer sent to members of the NSIA was distributed to members of the press in Lincoln Thursday by a person who did not identify himself.

Brauer acknowledged he had written the letter, saying it was "not the sort of thing we would have released to the public."

The letter was sent to members who were behind on their dues," he said. It outlined the NSIA's plans for the future.

The letter said, "We have been building pressure for months for the removal of Dr. Miller as commissioner of education, and a number of his staff, because we do not believe that so long as Dr. Miller remains in office, there can be any locally initiated solutions to local school problems.

'Remove Miller'

"It is hoped that the State Board of Education will take positive steps to regain control of the State Department of Education and their leadership role through the removal of Dr. Miller," it said.

The letter also noted that State Board of Education member Frank Landis has urged the placing before the state's voters the question of whether mandatory school reorganization should be implemented in Nebraska.

Brauer said the idea appeared to be gaining some support in the state.

"I should not have to tell you what the costs in time, energy and financial resources would have to be to defeat a statewide vote on compulsory reorganization," he said.

The letter said "should we be successful in our efforts to remove Dr. Miller from office, there should be some relaxation in the tensions and pressures being placed upon our schools, and could result in taking some of the steam out of the proposed petition campaign to place forced reorganization on the ballot."

Committee Takes No Action On 2 Food Inspection Bills

The Legislature's Agriculture Committee took no action Thursday on a pair of controversial bills which would transfer food inspection responsibilities from the State Agriculture Department to the Health Department.

Livestock and poultry producers said the two bills, sponsored by Lincoln Sen. Fern Orme, would only lead to a duplication of services.

Nearly two of the three hours spent in public hearing Thursday were expended on discussion of the bills, LB464 and LB465.

Public health spokesmen supported the measures. But opposition came from a variety of agricultural and livestock organizations.

Sen. Orme said that "food production is one thing, but control of food outlets quite another. If I had appendicitis, I'd go to someone in the health field. If I wanted a tractor tested, I'd go to someone in agriculture."

Doyle H. Free of the Nebraska Poultry Association said that the measure "would not be in the best interests of either the consumer or the producer."

He and other opponents said there would be no way to limit Health Department inspection merely to retail food preparation, as in restaurants, and that sanitarians are not qualified to make investigations dealing with livestock infections and meat quality.

Sen. Orme said 37 other states have turned such inspections over to their health departments, and "why shouldn't Nebraska?" The preparation of food should be "under health-oriented people," she declared.

After the lengthy debate, however, she told the committee that she would prepare a pair of alternate bills spelling out more specifically her intended purpose.

State Grass Bill Moves To Floor

The little blue stem grass would be declared the official state grass under a bill sent to the floor of the Legislature Thursday by the Miscellaneous Subjects Committee.

The bill, LB729, sponsored by State Sen. Maurice A. Kremer of Aurora and Wayne L. Schreurs of Seward. It was the only bill drawn up for State Sen. Stanley A. Matzke of Milford before he died earlier this year.

Kremer and Schreurs, who was appointed to succeed Matzke, took over sponsorship of the bill.

Iowan Tops Pork Cooking Contest

Omaha (AP) — Lorren Voss, a 28-year-old supermarket meat department manager from Tipton, Iowa, grilled his way to the title of National Pork Cookout King here Thursday.

The contest was a feature of the two-day National Pork Producers Council convention.

Voss served up his speciality, Hobo Ribs, to gain the nod over seven other entries.

Nebraska's entry, Darrel Messman of Bruning, placed fourth.

The organization crowned Claudia Arndt, 17-year-old high school senior from LaCrosse, as National Pork Queen at a noon luncheon.

The swine producers re-elected all officers and directors. Albert Gehlbach of Lincoln, Ill., is the president.

The Minnesota Pork Producers Association won the Best State Program Award presented annually by the national organization.

Size Of Military Troop Request For Vietnam Stunned President

quest — a 40 per cent increase beyond the 535,000 men already committed to Vietnam — stunned Johnson and the civilians gathered around him, though the initial impulse was to see how the commander's needs might be filled.

The President was wary about a massive new commitment of forces. Had he not gone to extraordinary lengths to send half a million men to Vietnam without calling up reserves or imposing economic controls?

Every year the generals had come to him — sometimes more than once a year — with the plea for "a little bit more to get the job done." Now they were asking for mobilization.

No one at the breakfast table advocated lowering American objectives that day.

It was a time, however, when many forces were converging on the White House, pressing Johnson to change course on the war. Disenchantment with the war had spread.

Military Thin

If tolerance of the war had worn thin, so had the nation's military resources. There was literally almost nothing more to send to Vietnam without mobilization, larger draft calls, lengthening the 12-month combat duty, or sending Vietnam veterans back for second tours of duty — all excruciating decisions.

Congress was in such ferment that the process of legislation was partly paralyzed. The dollar was being battered by the gold crisis in Europe and war-generated inflation at home.

More fundamentally, the nation was divided. The fabric of public civility had unravelled as opinion on the war polarized.

Against this backdrop, the crucial inner debate in the administration began.

Johnson chose his lifelong friend, Clark M. Clifford, to head a task force to advise him what to do about the troop request.

At 10:30 a.m. Friday, March 1, Clifford took the oath of office as secretary of defense. He had already been told that the President wanted a recommendation on the troop question the following Monday.

Three hours after his swearing in, Clifford gathered the task force around the oval oak table in the private dining room of the secretary of defense.

None of the civilians advocated a flat commitment to pour 206,000 more men into the war. Nor did they want to reject the request out of hand.

Early Collision

There was an early collision in the Clifford task force over future war strategy and the possibilities of military victory.

Two broad coalitions emerged:

One favored continuation of Westmoreland's strategy of attrition — of wearing down the enemy by intense military pounding, contending that Tet was less a military setback than an opportunity. By boldly seizing the initiative, the allies could decimate and demoralize the enemy and open the way to a favorable settlement.

The other group challenged the very premises of the old strategy. They urged a less aggressive ground war, called for new efforts to open negotiations with Hanoi.

Clifford's eventual role was remarkable because it was wholly unexpected. He came into government with a reputation as a hawk.

But Clifford had begun to have doubts on U.S. policy during a trip in August, 1967, to Vietnam and the allied countries contributing troops to the war. On his return, he confided to Johnson that he was deeply "uneasy" to have discovered that American concern about Vietnam was "not shared by our allies."

Still Supporter

Clifford was disturbed but remained a supporter of administration policy. He was encouraged by secret diplomatic efforts to get negotiations started with Hanoi on the basis of the San Antonio formula.

The proposal offered to halt

Clifford Became Defense Secretary As Only A 'Modified Hawk'

all bombing of North Vietnam provided this would lead promptly to productive talks and "assuming" Hanoi would not take military advantage of the cessation.

At his Senate confirmation hearings, Jan. 25, 1968, Clifford himself had added the important interpretation that this meant Johnson would tolerate "normal" levels of infiltration from North to South Vietnam.

Clifford's remarks had not been cleared in advance. For two days, Rusk reportedly argued with Johnson against giving administration endorsement to the Clifford interpretation. But he was overruled.

Thus, Clifford entered the government a modified hawk, not a diehard as many had thought.

'On New Case'

He plunged for the first time into the minutiae of Vietnam like an attorney taking a new case. In the previous two weeks he had had lengthy private talks with McNamara, whose own misgivings about the war had sharpened in his final months.

With the lid off, Clifford discovered a nest of "hidden doves" at the Pentagon, including his deputy, Paul Nitze, a few younger generals and colonels and a score of bright young civilians.

A number of officials took the troop request as evidence of "panic" on Westmoreland's part. But the massive request was not originally his idea.

Three Additions To Force

The Wheeler-Westmoreland plan presented to the Clifford task force called for 206,000 men by June 30, 1969, about 100,000 of them within a few months, and two later increments of about 50,000 men each.

The implication was that with 206,000 more men, the war would "not be terribly long," as one Pentagon civilian put it. But there was no precise forecast. Assistant Defense Secretary Paul Warnke read a paper that challenged the military thesis.

Hanoi, he said, would match American reinforcements as it had in the past and the end result would simply be an overall escalation of the war and "a lot more killing" on both sides.

As an alternative, Warnke's paper urged a turn toward de-escalation — a pullback from Westmoreland's search-and-destroy tactics and abandonment of such isolated outposts as the besieged marine garrison at Khe Sanh. It said U.S. forces should be used as a mobile shield in and near population centers, and should demand more from the South Vietnamese Army.

Doubts Raised

The complexity of the troop issue began to raise doubts in Clifford's mind.

"Part of it was Clark's intelligent questioning and part of it was his naievete," a colleague recalled. "He asked about things that others more familiar with the details would not have asked."

The mood of the other senior members of the task force was to go along generally with Westmoreland's plans. Rusk regarded this as a military matter and would deter to the generals. But Clifford wanted to know how this troop increase would work more successfully than previous ones. Always, it seemed to him, victory had receded like a mirage.

The first task force report, on Tuesday, Mar. 5, was a short, unsigned, four or five-page memorandum that recommended providing Westmoreland with 50,000 more troops in the following three months. It set out a schedule for readying the remainder of the 206,000 men for dispatch to Vietnam over the next 15 months.

The Pentagon viewed the memorandum as a move "to get the pipeline going" — general approval of the troop request. State Department officials saw it as part of a process of "whittling down" the 206,000 figure.

Clifford, worried that the recommendation would set the President's course irrevocably, tried to stall.

Wheeler wanted to move ahead. But others, such as Rusk and presidential assistant Walt Rostow, were willing to have the issue studied further, which seemed to suit the President's mood, too. His instinct, a White House aide later explained, was to delay implementing the plan.

Questions Pointed

Clifford was asking more pointed questions. "What is our military plan for victory?" he demanded. "How will we end the war?"

Even the bombing campaign against North Vietnam came under his scrutiny.

Townsend Hoopes, under secretary of the Air Force, wrote him a memo urging a total bombing halt on grounds that the bombing was not having significant results.

Hoopes contended that it was "a military fiction" that U.S. combat casualty levels would rise if the bombing were halted. American losses, he said, were primarily "a function" of the aggressive U.S. ground strategy in the south.

Under the impact of such arguments, Clifford's doubts became convictions. He supported the President's restrictions on the war and began the search for a path to disengagement.

Debate Seesaws

The debate, now transferred to the White House, seesawed through the middle of March. Clifford then began to state his case for a fundamental change in American policy; it was time to emphasize peace, not a larger war.

Bluntly, he challenged the task force recommendation for more troops. "This isn't the way to go at all," he told the President. "This is all wrong."

Clifford's outspoken challenge was deeply disturbing to Johnson, who instinctively craved a consensus among his intimate advisers.

Although the President never turned his celebrated temper on Clifford, the argument chilled their personal relations and left the defense secretary, a friend for 30 years, sometimes feeling frozen out of the White House.

Some Resentful

Other members of the president's inner circle were apparently resentful that Clifford was trying to play such a commanding role. Rusk was opposed to the long-run implications of Clifford's arguments — that in the end, the U.S. would have to settle for less.

At the Pentagon itself morale was rising. The civilian doves who had questioned the war policy and had been uncertain of Clifford's views, now counted him among their number.

The President's speech drafter, Harry McPherson, had already begun work on a major Vietnam speech — unknown to the Pentagon or the State Department.

The speech was originally conceived in late February on the basis of Rostow's analysis that the Tet offensive had not been a real setback and that the allies should hang on.

Numbers Reduced

Initially, the draft included an open ended commitment to the war, a willingness to carry on at whatever the cost. But as the internal debate over troop figures raged on and the troop numbers dwindled from 206,000 to 135,000 to 50,000, the tone of the speech softened a bit and lower numbers were inserted finally. But the President would not commit himself to any draft or any figure.

Then, in March, Sen. Eugene McCarthy scored a sunning upset in the New Hampshire presidential primary. American casualties topped Korean War losses. American and West European bankers held an emergency meeting in Washington to stem the run of gold. The late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy announced on March 16 he would run for the Democratic presidential nomination.

On March 15, Arthur Goldberg, the U.S. representative at the United Nations, sent a private memo to Johnson urging him to halt all bombing of North Vietnam as a way to get peace negotiations started.

Others in the administration favored such a step — Under Secretary of State Katzenbach, and Ambassador-At-Large W. Averell Harriman, among others. But it was Goldberg, increasingly frustrated on the Vietnam issue, who dared brook the President's anger by raising the issue point blank.

Halt Opposed

Such advisers as Rostow opposed a total bombing halt. They said it would look like a sign of weakness. The military objected that it would jeopardize American troops just south of the demilitarized zone. Still others favored waiting.

A day after the Goldberg memo, the subject came up among Johnson's advisers. The President, his patience sorely tested, reared back in his chair, and said:

"Let's get one thing clear. I'm telling you now I am not going to stop the bombing. Now I don't want to hear any more about it. Goldberg has written me about the whole thing, and I've heard every argument. I'm not going to stop it. Now is there anybody here who doesn't understand that?"

There was dead silence.

The bombing issue was dropped for that meeting. But it was not dead. Clifford, the lawyer, had noticed a loophole.

(Tomorrow: President Johnson's conversion.)

Human Rights Commission Supports Open Housing Bill

By TOM EKVALL
Star Staff Writer

The Lincoln Human Rights Commission, unhappy over the City Council's failure to support the proposed state open housing bill, voted publicly Thursday to support the legislation.

The commission had asked the council to support the bill, LB718. But council members voted Monday to support the general concept of open housing legislation rather than the specific bill.

In other action, Harry Peterson was installed as chairman of the commission. Peterson, who replaces outgoing chairman Gary Hill, said he would accept the post on the condition the commission understand that he will resign if elected to the City Council.

Peterson is expected to file Friday as a candidate for the City Council.

Charles Huff, who has already filed for City Council, was named vice chairman of the commission and commission member James Raglin was named secretary.

Displeased

In discussion on the council's decision to support open housing generally rather than the specific bill, Raglin said he was displeased that the council "took the easy way out."

Raglin said he understood one reason the council did not support the proposed bill was that "the bill is amendable and that the council could end up supporting something different than originally introduced."

But the council already supports other bills affecting the city, said Raglin, adding, "These bills are in the same boat as the open housing bill."

Final Duty

Hill gave commission members a report summing up his feelings about race relations in Lincoln as his final duty as chairman.

He reported that the "real goal" for 1969 should be the achievement of individual involvement within the city.

Hill cited "Project Help" as a chief means in accomplishing this goal.

"The project will need 2,000 neighborhood coordinators within the next year if it is to be a truly effective tool for human rights in the city," he said.

Hill said he thinks more emphasis needs to be placed on working with American Indians, Mexican-Americans, and foreign visitors.

Industry Slow

Hill said that while some progress has been made in race relations in Lincoln, private industry still seems slow to promote and upgrade members of the minorities into responsible jobs which they are capable of handling.

"I still see private and fraternal organizations that will not accept a man strictly on the basis of color; and despite public concern, speeches and laws, it does not appear that they (the groups) will change within the immediate future," Hill said.

He said a conscientious effort must be made to establish a positive minimum housing code as well as a local open housing ordinance prior to 1970.

NEIGHBORHOOD IMPROVEMENT PLAN FUNDED

A grant of $13,720 has been awarded to the Lincoln Action Program for a neighborhood improvement project in the Clinton School area, it was announced Thursday.

The project has been contracted to the Better Lincoln Committee (BLC) which will provide additional contributions in the form of services valued at $3,687.

A project manager, housing specialist and a clerical assistant will be employed by the Better Lincoln Committee. A service center will be established in the Clinton neighborhood.

"Environmental improvement through self-help efforts and demonstrations of housing improvement through voluntary cooperation" are the immediate objectives, according to the Rev. C. Ebb Munden, BLC president.

A neighborhood council is expected to be organized to guide and assist in the development of the project.

Activities that will be proposed for consideration include consultation to property owners on improvements, referral services on available community resources, organization of training opportunities in housekeeping and self-help efforts, housing improvement demonstration projects, block meetings and information services.

Funds for the project were obtained through the federal Office of Economic Opportunity.

Ed Board Negotiators Accept Added Pay Step

The Lincoln Board of Education negotiating team Thursday night agreed to add another step to the teachers' basic salary schedule that would provide increased pay to staff members with a master's degree plus 18 more hours of graduate study.

The proposal was the only change in the positions of the school board and Lincoln Education Association at the second negotiating session.

The meeting, closed to the public with only a summary available to report, was confined to discussion about the format of the teachers' basic salary schedule.

The LEA again rejected the board's proposal for a differentiated staff concept, and the board rejected the LEA request for intermediate steps — varying pay levels based on the number of hours earned in between graduate degrees — except for the step of M.A. plus 36 hours.

The prsent salary schedule provides higher pay levels for persons with M.A., six-year certificate and Ph.D. degrees.

Since the six-year certificate is generally offered only in educational administration, the board's team proposd the equivalent of the hours needed for a six-year certificate — M.A. plus 36 hours — as a substitute program to encourage teachers to take added hours in a subject matter area.

The five LEA negotiators and the three board negotiators "argued the relative merits of intermediate steps, "according to the summary prepared by Supt. John Prasch who is serving as chairman of the negotiation sessions.

"Except for the one step" conceded by the board, the teams are "in disagreement about the rest of the format," Prasch concluded.

Added Probation Officers, Policemen Urged By PTA

More policemen and probation officers and higher salaries for all of them were rated Thursday by the Area Council PTA as the greatest needs in Lincoln to help reduce crime and improve the administration of justice.

Citizens also need more information on the causes of juvenile delinquency, and the counseling in schools should be increased, especially at the elementary level. PTA Council members indicated.

The crime prevention survey of some 40 representatives of Lincoln PTA units and principals was taken following a program on crime control.

Speakers at the session included Lancaster County Juvenile Judge W. W. Nuernberger, Pupil Services Director Eldon Heskitt, the police-community relations officer, Ben Goble, and the student employment supervisor, Ed Schwartzkopf.

To Guide Council

The survey results will be used to guide the PTA Council executive committee in planning action, according to President Mrs. Robert Beggs. The opinions indicate that proposals should be made to the city and county governments as they prepare budgets for next year, she said.

PTA Citizens Advisory Committee Chairman Dr. Marvin Stewart reported that preliminary results from a parents' survey on summer school indicate that financing half from tax funds and the other half from tuition would be preferred.

Summer school programs for remedial, enrichment, repeat and experimental work should be available, according to the parents' opinions.

Financing

However, more than half of the cost for remedial and repeat programs should be financed with tax funds while no more than half of the enrichment and experimental programs should use tax funds, Stewart reported.

Stewart said that parents also favored having transportation furnished with the cost borne by students riding the school buses.

Summer school locations were generally supported at two high schools, two junior highs and six elementary schools.

The Citizens Advisory Committee will use the summer school survey results in planning proposals to present to the Board of Education Tuesday night.

Officials View Bridge Deicer

State officials got a look Thursday at the first model of a device which would automatically prevent ice on bridges.

The apparatus anticipates the formation of ice through sensors and spreads deicing materials on the bridge, according to its inventor.

Bert F. Hinrichs, Shelbyville, Ind., the inventor, gave representatives of the State Highway Department and State Patrol a demonstration of the device at the Seventh St. overpass north of Lincoln.

Although the device is not in production yet, Hinrichs said, "We hope to form a corporation soon and begin production."

He said use of the machine would eliminate the need for road crews to manually spread deicing material on the bridge after ice has already formed.

The cost of the sensor unit was estimate at $500. Most bridges would require only one unit, according to Hinrichs.

R. L. Meyer, traffic engineer for the highway department said the officials were just seeking information about the device at the present.

Coffee Honors Bride Who Wasn't There

You won't find Mrs. Samuel Amato of Indianapolis, Ind., in the picture. But Mrs. Amato was the honored guest at the coffee and one-gift shower for which Mrs. Joe T. Carroll and Mrs. Larry Johns were hostesses on Thursday morning at the home of Mrs. Carroll.

The wedding of Sally Spohn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Spohn, and Mr. Amato took place last December, and since then the former Nebraska coed (Delta Gamma) has been starring in the role of homemaker in Indianapolis, Ind.

Since the wedding did not take place in Lincoln, and since the bride missed the usual round of prenuptial courtesies, Mrs. Carroll and Mrs. Johns decided to have a post-nuptial party for a bride who wasn't there.

In the picture, seated left to right, are Mrs. Don Thompson (seated on arm of chair in foreground), Mrs. Gilbert Erickson, Mrs. Howard Elm, Mrs. Clara Forburger, Mrs. Richard Spohn (mother of the bride) and Mrs. Arthur Christensen.

We're really not holding our breath until Spring chooses to make its appearance, but neither are we believing all of the almanacs, and all of the prophecies which seem to be making the rounds. As a matter of fact we aren't even remotely interested in the world of weather — just in the world of news.

And this morning we bring you homecomers and, for added flavor, news of a guest.

Last Monday Mr. and Mrs. Edwin H. Hammond returned from one of their favorite winter holidays —a Caribbean cruise. Mr. and Mrs. Hammond have been on many such cruises and most of those times they have been aboard one of the ships belonging to the Costa Lines — an Italian firm. And many times they have had Paolo Delles as a purser.

On their recent trip Mr. and Mrs. Hammond were aboard the SS Frederico — and so was Mr. Delles. This time, however, Mr. Delles was not the purser — he was a passenger. It seems that Mr. Delles, an Italian, has retired and was more or less taking a busman's holiday.

Anyway Mr. Delles wanted to see the United States, and when the Frederico docked near Ft. Lauderdale he joined Mr. and Mrs. Hammond who invited him to accompany them to Lincoln. He will leave this weekend for San Francisco, and from there will wend his way to New York — and on to his homeland.

On Wednesday evening Mr. and Mrs. Hammond entertained at dinner at the Lincoln Country Club in courtesy to the visitor. It was quite amazing that among the 14 guests there were many who were well acquainted with Mr. Delles since they had been passengers on his cruise ships.

If you're wondering about Mr. Delles' reaction to the Nebraska snow — he had none. You see he went to school in Switzerland where snow is plentiful.

Don't run out...

"GET EXTRA MILK FOR THE WEEKEND," says Barbara Cowsill, singing mother of the Cowsills.

"Weekends really put a strain on the milk supply at our house."

"My brood gets extra active on weekends. And that always makes them extra thirsty. The milk literally vanishes from the refrigerator. Especially with the way they bring in friends for snacks. And there's always Sunday breakfast. We like big ones. The nine of us will drink up two gallons of milk between sunrise and noon. I've learned the best way to cope with this "milk drain" is to be prepared. I make it a point to get more milk for the weekend. Shouldn't you?"

Milk gives you a big lift that lasts.

Courtesy Honors April Bride-To-Be

March, believe it or not, rapidly is becoming a month of showers — bridal showers, that is, honoring the numerous brides-elect in the city who are planning April weddings.

A bride-to-be whose wedding will be an event of April 5, is Miss Saundra Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Miller, who was presented a shower of gifts on Wednesday evening at a courtesy for which Mrs. Richard Eirich and Mrs. DeWitt Wewee were hostesses. The 35 guests included feminine members of the family of Miss Miller and her fiance, D. Michael Wight, who is the son of Mrs. G. A. Murray, and of Dale D. Wight of Lynden, Wash.

From the left are Mrs. Eirich, Mrs. Murray, Mrs. Carl Eirich, Mrs. Miller, the honored guest and Miss Cheryl Eirich.

Bridal Party

Announcing the members of her bridal party is Miss Sheri Key, whose marriage to Michael Bonham, will be solemnized Saturday, March 29.

The bride-to-be has chosen her fiance's sister, Mrs. Robert Taylor of Ogallala, as her matron of honor for the afternoon ceremony, to be solemnized at St. Paul Methodist Church.

Her maid of honor will be Miss Catherine Pfund, and the bridesmaids will be Miss Mary McKelvey and Miss Charlene Hametz. Miss Katherine Hull will be the flower girl.

Dr. Robert Taylor of Ogallala, will serve his brother-in-law as best man, and the groomsmen will be Louis Kleager of Hastings; Zane Shaw, York; and Fred Key, brother of the bride-elect. Seating the guests will be Jerry Hadsell of Wheaton, Md.; Tom Hoffman of Cozad; Peter Schaffer, Hastings; John Ulrich, Seward; Don Spinar, Jack Parkhurst and Ron Bowmaster.

Lighting the candles for the 1:30 o'clock service will be Mr. Bonham's cousin, David Bonham of Cheyenne, Wyo., and Miss Key's brother, David Key. Jim Taylor of Ogallala, will be the ringbearer.

DAR Program

A program, "What's Your Line?", will be presented by Mrs. Louise Small of the Nebraska State Historical Society, Friday afternoon, for the members of Deborah Avery Chapter, DAR.

The program will follow a 12:30 o'clock luncheon at the Hotel Cornhusker for which Mrs. Charles J. Mulvaney will be chairman.

Abby: it's approval—not love

DEAR ABBY: I am not the kind of person who discusses my personal problems with friends, but I am so frustrated I have to talk to someone, and I do need some advice.

My husband holds a high executive position, and is a good provider for his family. He is well-liked by his business friends whom we entertain royally. I might add, on these occasions my husband is great company and when he looks at me, the love in his eyes is all a woman could ask for.

BUT, there is another side to him which is killing me. He never wants to accept invitations from people with whom he isn't involved in business. And he doesn't want me to invited "outside" friends here either. When I have gone against his wishes in this regard, I've suffered an evening of embarrassment and humilitation, so I have given up. (He will contradict me, or else he sits like a piece of stone and doesn't say a word all evening — except to talk to the dog.)

Abby, can you help me? I am not doing too well by myself.

FRUSTRATED

DEAR FRUSTRATED: That "love" you see in his eyes when you do his bidding strikes me as a fairly convincing performance, but it's only "approval," and perhaps a reward for obedience. When he's in a good mood, try to chisel an explanation off your piece of stone. If he doesn't care for the company of "outsiders," he should grow up and be a good sport once in a while just to please you.

DEAR ABB:Y I have very recently taken a job which requires me to work very close to a dentist. He has offices in one of the best professional buildings in town and his patients are fussy and well-to-do.

The first day, I noticed that the dentist had had onions or garlic for lunch. Whew! "Well," I figured, "that can happen to anyone once in a while."

Well, every day this week the dentist has come back from lunch smelling like an Italian pantry or a Kosher kitchen or whatever.

I can't understand why one of his patients doesn't say something to him. If I were a patient, I would, but I only work here. Any suggestions? I don't know how much longer I can take this.

NEW GIRL

DEAR GIRL: Tell him! He may appreciate it. And if he doesn't, your next job HAS to be better.

Food And Fun At Alpha Chi Omega House

Ordinarily the kitchen at the Alpha Chi Omega house isn't as crowded as it appears to be in the picture—unless, of course it is snack time after a cram session.

It was no cram-snack gathering on Wednesday afternoon, however—It was dinner preparation, and on the staff of cooks were Mr. and Mrs. Anjan Dey, Satyavan Dewan, and Dr. Jagdish Bhandari all of whom are far away from their native country, India.

Taking some lessons in the art of putting together of rice plauve, curried chicken, and a dessert created of very small spaghetti, noodles, raisins and nuts, plus all of the usual pudding ingredients, were three members of Alpha Chi Omega—Debbie West, a sophomore from Omaha; Linda Joachim of Fairbury, also a sophomore, and the chapter president, Jean Baer of York.

Joining the group for dinner and an informal evening were six more University of Nebraska students from India.

Following dinner the visitors from India presented a program of slides acquainting their hostesses with India. Then there were some hands of bridge, and the evening closed with music — Alpha Chi Omega songs were sung by members of the chapter, and the guests reciprocated by singing songs from their native India.

We might add that the feminine guests wore their Indian costumes, but the men arrived in western attire.

Club Has Luncheon

The members of the Nebraska Unicameral Ladies Club met for luncheon and a fashion show at Hovland-Swanson's Wednesday afternoon, when Mrs. Leslie Stull of Alliance, and Mrs. Ramey Whitney of Chappell served as hostesses.

Guests for the afternoon were Mrs. Nina Conklin, Mrs. Larry Price, Mrs. Joseph Soshnik, Mrs. George Round, Mrs. Lowell Welch, Mrs. Dick Hartsock, Mrs. Wilmer Schmidt, Mrs. Merlin Minderman, Mrs. Harold Simpson, Jr., Miss Linda Olsen, and from Lexington, Mrs. Albert Kjar.

Mrs. Rudolph Kokes and Mrs. Loren Schmidt will be hostesses to the club next Monday, when the group will meet for luncheon at the Gay Nineties Restaurant.

Shower

To honor Miss Connie McAdams, who will become the bride of Guntars Dambro on Saturday, March 29, Mrs. James Nelson and Miss Jan Bay will entertain at a shower this evening at the home of Mrs. Clarence Nelson. The 15 guests will include office co-workers of the honoree.

Keep up with real depth reporting on government, state and community affairs in the Capital Section of the "Sunday Journal and Star."

Bridge: the rebid

BIDDING QUIZ

You are South, both sides vulnerable. The bidding has been:

South	West	North	East
1 ♦	Pass	1 ♥	Pass
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♣	Pass

What would you bid now with each of the following four hands?

1. ♠AQ63 ♥74 ♦AKJ52 ♣83
2. ♠AKJ5 ♥9 ♦AQJ863 ♣Q7
3. ♠KQ94 ♥— ♦KJ742 ♣AK65
4. ♠KQJ2 ♥J8 ♦AQJ9 ♣A74

1. Two diamonds. The only real choice lies between two diamonds or two notrump. Two notrump would be the more encouraging bid,but we lack the extra values for this direct move towards game. Our hand is of the minimum class — only 14 high-card points — and we have not yet identified it as such, since our first two bids would have been exactly the same holding another queen or two.

Partner is unlikely to pass two diamonds — in view of the two forcing bids he has made—but, if he does, we can be sure our side lacks the values for a sound game contract.

2. Three diamonds. Here we have substantial values beyond a minimum opening bid and have not yet shown them. While we have the high-card values for a jump to three notrump, this bid would indicate a balanced hand, which we don't have. Three diamonds suggests 6-4-2-1 distribution and might well pave the way to a slam in diamonds. We may still wind up at three notrump, if that is what North now bids, but at least he will know what to expect when dummy comes down.

3. Five clubs. Practically every hand rises or falls in value as the bidding progresses. Thus, when we opened this one, the prospect for game or slam was exceptionally good, but when North responded one heart, the value of the hand dropped appeciably.

However, when North next bids two clubs, our original values are not only restored but increased. Slam is now a distinct possibility, but we cannot bid it single-handed. Partner will realize from the jump to five clubs that we have an excellent hand with good trump support and a probably void in hearts. He will thus be in good position to appraise his values, discounting any strength he has in hearts.

4. Three notrump. With 18 high-card points and a notrump type of hand, this is clearly the right bid. It would be wrong to bid only two notrump, which partner could pass. Two notrump would be proper if we changed the ace of clubs to the jack.

OPEN 10 A.M. DAILY

POSTCARD by Stan Delaplane

Asuncion is the capital of land-surrounded Paraguay. It's a river port. You can cross the river by outboard canoe and land in an Indian village whose girls are innocently topless. (It's hot country, Claude.)

We went over with the outboard popping in the still, hot air.

The topless girls were beating clothes on rocks on the edge of the river. When they saw the boat coming, they took off the wraparounds from their waists and stood smiling, bare as radishes.

"That is for the pictures, Senor," said the guide and boatman. "You get in the middle and I take your camera and take the pictures. All the tourists like that."

All I could think of was wait until Eastman Kodak hears about this!

It's a good 102 degrees in the South American summer. (We borrowed salt pills from the American Ambassador Benigno C. Hernandez—he's a New Mexico lawyer.)

We've been flying Braniff, the airline of many colors. This one is Easter egg yellow, and the stewardesses are in Pucci plum miniskirts with matching pantyhose.

They bring the big 707 jets in on thin air landing fields, 15,000 feet up in the Andes. At Asuncion, they lay it in on the edge of the runway, reverse the engines with a powerful roar, stand on the brakes and eat up concrete to the edge of the jungle.

It's a new stop — Asuncion has only 300,000 people. Nearly all of them are at the airport. A hundred barefoot boys work as porters, hopeful of a few soggy guarani bills.

Asuncion's modern hotel is the Guarani on the main square. It is air-conditioned, has a swimming pool and a top floor nightclub.

Paraguay hopes to get in on the lush tourist business. At present they export the best corned beef in South America.

The dinner hour is nine o'clock here. Traffic is minimal. And the restaurants move tables into the streets to catch the breath of evening air.

Hundreds of people bring their dinners down to the central park.

By midnight, except for a few small bars, they roll up the sidewalks. Asuncion is silent and sleeping until roosters crow at dawn. Across the river, ostriches come from the jungle to the river's edge to drink.

President-dictator General Alfredo Stroessner has run the Republic since 1954. There was considerable shooting when he took over. Now he is in his mellowing fifties, a firm grip on the throttle and allows the local papers to criticize him. (But maybe not too much.)

The country has a reputation of being good to peopie on the lam.

Peron jumped over here when it got hot in Argentina.

Martin Bormann, Hitler's missing deputy, was reported seen in nearby San Lorenzo. (We went out there. It's a dismal place.)

A Frenchman who left Paris with $30 million runs a restaurant "La Riviera."

France screamed for extradition. "Sorry," said Paraguay, "we can't find he did anything wrong."

"Paraguay is one of the pleasantest open-air jails in the world," said an American who lives here.

On the far side of Asuncion's airport is one of the world's largest air fleets — some 800 planes. Cessnas, Navions. Stagger-wing Beeches that can land on a dime.

This is the smuggling fleet, manned by soldiers-of-fortune.

At night they take off with cigarettes, perfumes, liquor for grassy hidden strips in surrounding Bolivia, Brazil and Argentina.

You are discouraged from looking into this. And so we didn't.

Leg Fracture Proves Costly

Kalispell, Mont. (AP) — Frances Madler broke her leg, everyone received his water bill late and the city was out $800.

Miss Madler is the city billing clerk who makes out the water bills and when her leg was broken recently, there wasn't enough experienced help available to replace her.

So the city council decided it had better buy a computer with a price tag of $800 plus 10 cents per month per account — just in case she's off the job again.

Two-Ton Tony Now Only A One-Tonner

It's been 26 years since Tony Galento last stepped into a boxing ring. And since that time a lot of things have changed — his weight, his drinking habits and the fight game to name a few.

"They can't call me Two-Ton Tony any more," he joked before making an appearance at the Lincoln Eagles Lodge Thursday night. "I'm down to 210 now, so you've got to call me One-Ton now."

Being down to 210 represents a drop of 70 pounds from his fighting weight for the ex-pugilist who will be 60 years old Monday.

But his weight wasn't the biggest loser in that fact.

The big loser was the beer industry since in Tony's heyday he consumed enough of the sudsy stuff to keep a medium-sized tavern owner out of the poorhouse.

"I don't drink much any more," he notes, "Only socially now, but I used to drink 10 or 15 beers after I'd finish working out. That's how I got down to 210 — by not drinking that stuff."

Didn't Train On It

However, the ex-brawling type fighter, who still carries the looks of a pugilist, debunks the legend that has grown up about him training for fights solely on beer.

"I trained hard," he claims. "I worked at it. I used to run six miles in the mornings, then work out for about two and a half hours in the afternoon, then run some more.

"It was after the workout that I'd drink 10 or 15 beers, then I'd have to run it off the next morning.

"If I had it to do over again, I'd still be a fighter, but I wouldn't stay up all night and I wouldn't drink like I used to."

SPORT SIGNALS

By Hal Brown
Sports Editor, The Star

"I only drank once before a fight and it wasn't beer. It took me six rounds to sober up."

Galento also jokingly rebukes another theory about himself, this one built by sports writers. "Writers have called me a dirty fighter," he says. "But during my workouts I took a shower three times a day. How could I be a dirty fighter?"

Still in a joking vein, Tony claims his reputation as a dirty fighter came not because of his tactics but because of the other fighter's moves.

"Sure, I fought with my thumbs up," he admits, "But I didn't stick them in anyone's eyes. If the other fighter happened to run into them, that's his fault, not mine.

"And, sure, I used to lower my head, but I never butted anyone. The other fighters would just happen to run into it."

But Tony doesn't deny that he did some unorthodox things in the ring.

Two-Second Knockout

One of his favorite stories is about the two-second knockout he scored.

"They claim it was a four-second knockout," he recalls, "But I know it was only two seconds. "I was fighting this big guy who was 6-6 and when the bell rang, I ran across the ring, hit him and ran back to my corner.

"My trainer was still going down the steps from the corner when I got back there, so it couldn't have been more than two seconds. People say 'what about the 10 seconds it takes to count him out,' but they didn't even have to bother to count over him.

"It goes to show that you should never turn your back on the Cosa Nostra," he adds, referring to his Italian descent.

Bloodiest Of All

Then there was his fight with Lou Nova which Galento won on a 14th round KO and which he calls "the bloodiest fight of all time.

"We both had blood all over us, but it was all his blood. We did everything in that fight except kick or bite each other."

Galento has nothing but disdain for the current crop of heavyweights, calling WBA champion Jimmy Ellis "a 10-cent fighter who couldn't even whip a fat middleweight (Floyd Patterson) except by getting a bum decision.

"If I couldn't whip both Ellis and Jerry Quarry in the same night in less than five rounds, I wouldn't take a dime from the promoters."

Two-Ton Tony once knocked out three fighters within a total of five rounds in the same night in Detroit, stopping Frankie Kits in one, Joe Brian in one and Paul Thierman in three.

Galento also knocked out a rassler named the Golden Terror in two rounds in a boxer vs. rassler match.

His one regret? "That no one ever shows movies of my winning fights like the Nova fight. All they ever show are my fights with Joe Louis, Max Baer and Buddy Baer.

They don't make 'em like Two-Ton Tony any more.

Norman, Okla. (AP) — Cellar dwelling Oklahoma, paced by Garfield Heard's 29 points, knocked Iowa State out of the Big Eight race with an 84-78 victory in the OU fieldhouse Thursday night.

Northeast Whips Links, 76-62, In District Test

. . . LHS THIRD-TIME VICTIM

By VIRGIL PARKER
Prep Sports Writer

Two-time defending state champion Lincoln Northeast took a giant step toward an unprecedented third title bid by subduing a stubborn Lincoln High quintet for the third time this season, 76-62, in District A-1 action at Pershing Auditorium Thursday night.

Lincoln High had given coach Ed Johnson's Rockets, the only unbeaten Class A club in the state, their toughest tests earlier in the campaign. The Links dropped the first encounter by just two points, came within a single counter the second time out, and this one was a lot closer than the score indicates.

Both clubs tallied an identical 24 field goals, but Northeast, with 13 successful free throws in the final quarter and 28 of 38 overall, won the clash at the charity stripe.

Coach Alden Johnson's Links, who held their only lead early in the second quarter at 21-19, fell behind by 11 before the halftime intermission, 42-31.

But early in the fourth quarter Lincoln High had the gap down to a slim five points, 59-54, when the foul trouble took its toll. Just 21 seconds into the final canto Gary Carbaugh retired with his fifth personal. A minute later Ron Peery followed and without their top shooter and rebounder the Links' chances died.

Scrambling for the ball in an effort to come from behind, Lincoln High was forced into even more of a fouling game. Though each team managed but a pair of fielders in the final eight minutes, Northeast pulled steadily away at the free throw line.

The Rockets displayed a balanced scoring attack, with all five starters in double figures. Maury Damkroger led the way with 20 points, high for the game. Bill Biggs followed with 14, Tom Novak had 13 with Harold Hill and Dan Cook each getting 10.

Sophomore Ken Adkins, with yeoman work on the boards, paced the Links with 14 points, while Carbaugh had 12 despite missing the entire fourth period.

Sam Sharpe, Lincoln High's playmaking guard, suffered a sprained ankle in the second quarter and missed some action before he was able to return and also fouled out, failing to get any points in the last quarter, yet contributed 12 points in the losing cause. Peery had 11 though lost on fouls early in the final period.

The Rockets had more muscles on the backboards, on several occasions getting two and three offensive rebound tries. That, and a greater continuity in carrying out their offensive game plan, was in the eyes of both coaches, the deciding edge in the Northeast victory.

The Rockets now face Lincoln East, a Wednesday night, 71-58, winner over Southeast, for a state tourney berth. The district title tilt will be at Pershing Auditorium Saturday night.

NU Falls To 'Pokes, By 72-63

Stillwater, Okla. (AP) — Oklahoma State weathered a fast Nebraska start Thursday night to hand the Cornhuskers a 72-63 Big Eight Conference basketball defeat.

The victory leveled OSU's season record at 12-12, while Nebraska fell to 11-14. In conference play Oklahoma State stands 5-8, Nebraska 4-9.

Nebraska hit its first five shots from the field and didn't miss a field goal attempt until six minutes had gone by.

Then OSU began to gain momentum, and Bill Christopher's basket midway through the first half gave the Cowboys an 18-17 lead. They never again trailed, opening up a 38-33 lead at intermission.

Oklahoma State's Joe Smith and Nebraska's Marvin Stewart shared game scoring honors with 18 points apiece, but three of Smith's teammates also were in double figures compared to one other Cornhusker.

O-State shot 52 per cent from the field, Nebraska 46 per cent.

NU Gymnasts Invade Colorado, Air Force

Nebraska's gymnastics team invades the State of Colorado this week.

Coach Jake Geier's Huskers will be looking for win No. 2 at Colorado tonight. On Saturday the Scarlets move down to the Air Force Academy for a crack at the Falcons.

Pistol Pete Needing 49 For Record

New York (AP) — Pete Maravich, the Louisiana State star, needs 49 points in his final game Saturday night to break the major-college basketball season scoring record he set last year.

This was disclosed Thursday with the release of the latest statistics by the National Collegiate Sports Service through games of last Saturday.

Maravich's average was 43.1. He hiked it to 43.6 with a 55-point perfirmance against Mississippi State the past Monday. A 49-point output against Georgia this Saturday night would give him a 43.81 mark. The record he established in the 1967-68 season is being carried as 43.8, but is actually 43.77.

Rick Mount of Purdue is the runnerup in the scoring race with a 33-point average. He is followed by Cal Murphy of Niagara with 32.7 and Spencer Haywood of Detroit, 31.8.

York, Norfolk Downed In Juco Regional Play

Oskaloosa, Iowa (AP) — Defending champion Fort Dodge of Iowa remained alive in the Region 11 junior college basketball tourney Thursday night by spilling second-seeded York, Neb., 102-93, in a quarter-final game.

In additional Thursday quarter-finals. Burlington lashed Norfolk, Neb., 89-77; Creston defeated Muscatine, 82-73 and Clarinda outshot Ellsworth 83-67.

Key fast break maneuvers and late free shots pried Fort Dodge away from York after the Nebraskans closed a 49-41 halftime deficit to 86-85.

Curtis Williams and Bill Brickhouse scored 25 and 23 points, respectively for Fort Dodge, while York's Slim Goodman's 32 points led all scoring.

Schuyler Hits DC Aquinas

. . . AURORA STOPS SEWARD

York — Class B's top-ranked Schuyler and fourth-rated Aurora posted Thursday night wins in the Class B-3 District basketball tournament here, advancing both teams into Saturday night's 7:30 finals.

Schuyler withstood Aquinas' stall tactics to record a 41-34 triumph while Aurora decisioned Seward 60-55.

The No. 1 Warriors carved a 24-19 halftime cushion before Aquinas coach Jack Bydalek decided to come out in a stall in the third period. Schuyler did not score until the last two seconds in the frame when Gene Harmon, hit one from underneath.

Ron Coleman of Aquinas bucketed the first two-pointer in the period with 5:27 remaining. The losers, after regaining possession, stalled until only 11 seconds were left.

David City then called time out, but the referee had already signalled a jump ball. A technical foul was assessed by Bydalek. Harmon however, missed the free throw but rebounded and scored. He scored on the ensuing in-bounds play.

Dan Jura, younger brother of NU freshman standout Chuck Jura, sparked Schuyler before intermission by hitting three straight jump shots from the side.

Aquinas had managed to slice its way to within four points at 33-29 with 3:01 remaining in the game. The losers trailed 35-32 with 1:18 left before Schuyler's press accounted for six consecutive points.

Harmon, a starter on last year's state championship team finished as game high scorer with 20 points. Koter paced Aquinas with 11 points. They were the only two players registering in double figures.

Seward staged a fourth-quarter rally before falling victim to Aurora's press. The losing Bluejays, who played Schuyler in the 1968 Class B finals, had closed to within three points at 56-53 with one minute remaining. But a pair of free throws by the Huskies' Skip Tredway dashed their comeback hopes.

Tredway was responsible for Aurora's fourth-quarter survival as he canned seven points in the frame. Seward's Tom Schaefer attempted a belated rescue effort, hitting 16 points in the final half. He finished with 22.

Tredway paced Aurora's balanced attack with 17 points. The Huskies placed three others in double figures

Omaha Paul VI won its second overtime battle in a row Thursday night in district play, this one a 70-68 overtime shocker over Millard, moving the Hawks just one step away from a trip to next week's state tournament.

But first the Hawks must get by Syracuse, a 83-70 victor over Waverly in Thursday night's other B-2 district playoff game at East High.

Paul VI and Syracuse will meet tonight at 8 p.m. to decide which advances to the state tournament.

It was a jump shot by 5-11 junior Ken Meyer with 20 seconds left on the clock which stunned the third-rated Indians, which, until another upset loss last week, had been perched in the lofty No. 1 spot.

The Hawks scored a 64-62 overtime decision over Nebraska City Tuesday night to advance to Thursday night's semifinals.

Meyer's heroics came after Millard, trailing by as much as five points during the last three minutes of regulation play, overcame a Paul VI stall to tie it, 68-all, on a free throw by Daryl Petersen with 1:11 left.

Two chances from the field by the Omaha club's Dennis Smith failed with only seconds remaining, sending the game into the three-minute overtime period.

Paul VI controlled the tip and immediately went back into its stall. But with 41 seconds left in three second violation turned the ball over to Millard.

Gambling, Meyer fouled Millard reserve Gary Bunjer and the Hawks grabbed the rebound from Bunjer's missed free throw with 31 seconds remaining.

Meyer then connected with his jumper and Bunjer missed on a driving layup attempt as the clock ran out, cementing the Paul VI victory.

Syracuse, leading by as much as 16 points at one time in the third quarter, had to stall off a late Waverly rally to preserve its ticket to tonight's finals.

Dave Johnson, a 5-9 senior guard, and Glen Schultz, a junior, had ripped Rocket defenses with outside shots to pull the Vikings back within two points, 68-66, with only 5:05 left in the game.

But a layup ty 6-5 Dennis Royal and three free throws — two by Clark Gartner and one by Tim Hoffman — gave Syracuse a 73-68 bulge and the Rockets went into a stall.

Fouling to crack the stall only made matters worse for the Vikings as Gartner, who hadn't missed all night, hit eight straight charity tosses in the waning minutes to bring his free throw total to 12 for 12, and ice the victory.

Sterling Nudges Elmwood

. . . JETS AVENGE EARLIER DEFEAT ON 67-66 DECISION

DeWitt — It looked for a long time like it was the sort of game where the last team getting a shot would win.

But stopping that final shot proved to be the difference as No. 1 Sterling nipped No. 2 Elmwood, 67-66, for a Class D state tournament ticket at Tri-County High School Thursday night. . . .

Standing tallest in the frantic final two minutes was Sterling's 6-6 Cal Christline. The rangy senior brought the Jets from behind, then scooped up an errant pass which was intended to set up Elmwood's last-shot strategy.

Christline had fueled the Jets in a blistering start as the rangy club roared to a 23-13 first quarter advantage behind his 11-point production.

Then the plundering Pirates slowly got back into the thick of things with their scrambling attack and pesky full-court press.

Elmwood, which owned a previous win over the top-rated Jets, closed the gap to 35-29 at halftime and took the lead for the first time at 48-47 when Bob Rosenow converted a pair of free throws with 1:38 left in the third quarter.

The Pirates continued their surge and led by five points three times midway in the fourth period before Sterling climbed back into contention on the shooting of David Meints and substitute Larry Harms.

Coach Larry Rathe's Jets finally got back on top when Christline scored with 1:23 remaining to make it 65-64.

Then the pressure really started building. Elmwood's Don Ferguson missed a free throw with 1:09 left and another with 59 seconds remaining. Christline still had his poise two seconds later when he converted two foul shots to give the Jets a 67-64 advantage.

Then Elmwood's Rosenow and Dan Beck and the Jets' Christline were to miss foul shots in the next 11 seconds. Ferguson brought the Pirates back when he rebounded his own missed shot to make it 67-66 with 31 seconds to play.

Randy Aden had a chance to sew it up for the Jets with 11 seconds left, but he, too, failed at the foul stripe. Beck rebounded and the Pirates called time out to talk it over with coach Larry Horstman.

With nine seconds left, the strategy was to hit Steve Lawson, who had 12 of his 14 points in the second half, for the final shot.

The Jets two-timed Ferguson, who received the in-bounds pass and his cross-court toss for Lawson was stolen by Christline.

It pushed the Sterling record to 23-2 and dropped Elmwood to 22-2 for the season.

Heavy Crown Said Vacant

. . . DIDN'T DEFEND TITLE

New York (AP) — The World Boxing Council withdrew recognition of Cassius Clay as world heavyweight champion Thursday and said it will recognize as world champion the winner of a match between Joe Frazier and "a leading and acceptable contender." Meanwhile, the WBC declared the title vacant.

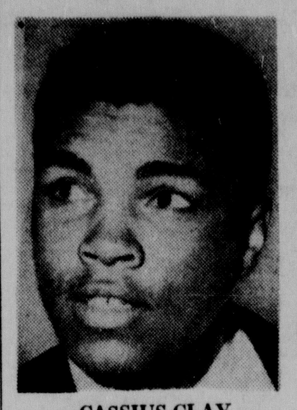
The announcement was made by Justiniano Montano of the Philippines, who is president of the WBC, after meeting with Edwin B. Dooley, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission.

Montano had announced in Manila last Nov. 13 that Clay would be stripped of recognition if he did not defend the crown by the end of 1968.

Clay, reached at Manhattan, Kan., where he was fulfilling a speaking engagement Thursday night, said the action did not surprise him. But he added that no one could ever take his title away except "on paper."

"I'm the champion," Clay said. "I had to whip Sonny Liston twice to prove that.

"They can take my title away, but only on paper.



CASSIUS CLAY

They'll never whip me. There's no man on earth who can whip me in the ring, and everybody in the world knows it."

Montano, in a statement, said the action was taken because of Clay's "inability to defend his title which has caused confusion in the heavyweight division and prevented the leading contenders from deciding the issue." Clay, who prefers to be called Muhammad Ali, was stripped of recognition as champion by the New York commission and the World Boxing Association on April 28, 1967, when he refused induction into the armed forces.

McCook Routed By Lamar, 84-55

Fort Collins, Colo. (AP) — Lamar Junior College of Colorado bested McCook J.C., 84-55, here Thursday night in the Region 9 National Junior College Basketball Tournament.

McCook had led 7-5 with nearly three minutes gone but that was the last time the Nebraskans were in front. Frank Phillips' 10-foot jumper put Lamar ahead to stay at 9-7 and by halftime the margin had grown to 41-30.

They don't make them like they used to.

They may still look like they used to, but that doesn't mean we still make them that way.

We used to have a tiny rear window.

Now there's a big one.

We used to have a plain old rear seat.

Now there's one that folds down.

Over the years, engine power has been increased by 76%.

A dual brake system has been added.

The heater is much improved.

Fact is, over the years, over 2,200 such improvements have been made. Yet, you have to be some sort of a car nut to tell a new one from an old one.

Which, of course, was the plan.

In 1949, when we decided not to out-date the bug, some of the big auto names making big, fancy changes were Kaiser, Hudson and Nash.

. . . SENATORS GET JUST ONE HIT IN 8-5 LOSS

By Associated Press

The exhibition baseball season opened Thursday with the New York Yankees coming within one out of no-hitting Washington and beating Ted Williams' Senators 8-5. In the other game, Montreal used a three-run homer by Bob Bailey to beat Kansas City 9-8.

Williams, one of baseball's greatest hitters, watched his team struggle without a safety until Dick Billings managed a two-out single in the ninth inning.

The Senators scored their first four runs without a hit as New York pitchers walked 12 batters. Tom Shopay, a rookie outfielder, hit a three-run wind-blown homer for the Yankees.

The game between the expansionist Montreal and Kansas City teams was a free swinging affair with the Expos collecting 13 hits and the Royals 16. Outfielder Pat Kelly and shortstop Bill Harris had three hits each for Kansas City.

Boots Day, a rookie outfielder, had three hits including a three-run homer in a St. Louis Cardinal intrasquad game. More significant in the Cardinal camp was the arrival of pitcher Bob Gibson and outfielder Lou Brock, who ended their holdouts earlier this week. Still absent and overdue from the Caribbean were first baseman Orlando Cepeda and second baseman Julian Javier.

The San Francisco Giants also were concerned about the absence of pitcher Juan Marichal. Chub Feeney, the club's vice president, went to the airport to meet Marichal but the plan on which the star pitcher from the Dominican Republic had reservations arrived without him.

Shortstop Leo Cardenas wired the Minnesota Twins that his arrival in camp had been delayed by the flu and surgery facing one of his children. The Twins said Cardenas would arrive Tuesday.

Three more name players signed contracts Thursday. Outfielder Willie Horton, who had been seeking $100,000 from the Detroit Tigers, signed for a reported $65,000 and outfielders Reggie Jackson and Rick Monday, Oakland's last two holdouts, also agreed to terms.

The Chicago Cubs tore up the 1969 contracts of four stars — Ron Santo, Billy Williams, Ernie Banks and Ferguson Jenkins — and signed all of them to two-year pacts covering 1969 and 1970. Banks was in the second year of a two-year contract he signed in 1968 while the others had all recently signed 1969 contracts.

Cincinnati landed Pete Rose, signing him to probably the largest contract ever received by a Reds player. Rose, who hit .335 in 1968, was asking $85,000 to $90,000. Frank Robinson in his last year with the Reds, got $68,000, for the previous high.

FRED ECOFFEY

Fred Ecoffey Will Defend Riding Title

Grand Island — Jockey Fred Ecoffey of Pine Ridge, S.D., will be back at Fonner Park this spring to defend his riding title when the 29-day racing season opens on March 21.

The Pine Ridge saddlesmith only rides from the latter part of March to the first of November. Despite the loss of the first three months of the year Ecoffey was the 21st leading rider in the nation by the end of October with a record of 191 wins, 123 seconds and 117 thirds in only 926 mounts.

This gave him a winning percentage of .206 which was only two points less than Angel Cordero, the top rider in the nation in 1968.

Ecoffey accounted for six wins in one day on two separate occasions last year He had his supporters going wild on Aug. 5 last year in Lincoln when he rode six consecutive winners to give him a record of six winners for seven mounts.

The talented saddlesmith repeated the remarkable riding fete on Oct. 30 at Atokad Park when he tallied six wins aboard nine mounts.

Gentile In Japan

Tokyo, Japan (AP) — Jim Gentile, 34, former major league first baseman, arrived Thursday to play this season with the Kintetsu Buffaloes of the Pacific Coast League.

Weiskopf, Funseth Tie

Orlando, Fla. (AP) — Tom Weiskopf, back in stride after five months in the Army Reserve, took full command of a 20-mile an hour wind Thursday and fired a four-under-par 68 to share the first-round lead with veteran Rod Funseth in the $115,000 Citrus Open Golf Tournament.

Weiskopf, a 26-year-old Reserve private, and Funseth fired nines of 36 and 32, which included six birdies and two bogeys for each over the 6,849-yard, par 72 Rio Pinar Country Club layout.

Both were among the early finishers and their lead held up throughout the day as thundershowers sent scores soaring. Less than half the field of 144 managed par or better.

In at 69 were defending champion Dan Sikes; perennial runner-up Tommy Aaron; Miller Barber; winner of the rain-shortened Kaiser Open; Jack McGowan, and newcomer Larry Hinson.

Sikes made a late bid to at least tie for the lead but slipped back when rain drenched winds and brief late afternoon the course as the last starters completed their rounds in this second stop on the rich Florida circuit.

Weiskopf, in his second start after Army duty, pronounced both his game and the course in excellent condition, while Funseth, 35, said he had to scramble for pars on at least three holes.

Lincoln High Hosts State Prep Gymnastics Festival

. . . OMAHA CENTRAL QUALIFIES MOST

By VIRGIL PARKER
Prep Sports Writer

The state high school gymnastics meet, dominated by Lincoln schools since the 1950s, opens its two-day championships at Lincoln High's Johnson Gym Friday afternoon.

The preliminaries, split into two Friday sessions beginning at 2 and 7 p.m., will be followed by the finals on Saturday at 2.

Twenty-three schools will be represented by one or more performers, two more than last year when Lincoln High won the title.

Links' coach Phil Sprague said that "the Omaha area schools will have a lot of people, but I still think the Lincoln district is by far the toughest."

Sprague pointed out that "East High and Northeast both failed to qualify some boys for the state meet who had defeated Omaha performers in dual meets. Yet those same Omaha kids will be here. So it may be a battle of quality against quantity."

Omaha Central qualified 14 team members for the meet. Lincoln High and Omaha Benson follow with 12 apiece, while Northeast, Omaha Creighton Prep and Bellevue each have 10.

Lincoln Southeast, which won the local district competition by taking first place in five of the seven events, has but eight qualifiers. But the Knights have both Hoppy Batten and Alex Gerard, who won state titles a year ago.

Gerard won the still rings competition last March in addition to placing second in the parallel bars and third on the horizontal bar. Batten took home the blue ribbon in the trampoline event last year, though he finished second in the event this year at the district level to teammate Ted Kimball. Kimball fell off the tramp in the district competition and failed to qualify for state last winter.

The same fate befell Lincoln High's Doug Maughan at the district meet last week. He finished third in the state in the event last year.

Others who finished among the top five who will appear again include defending tumbling champion Russ Ellis from Lincoln High. The Links also have Jeff Johnson, third in tumbling and fifth in floor exercise, Tim Howell, second on the horizontal bar, Jim Gump, second in floor exercise and Mike Bott, second on the trampoline.

Two performers from outside the Capital City to return are North Platte's Bill Teichert in the side horse and Creighton Prep's Jack Garvey, tied for second in the floor exercise.

The top ten finishers in each event following the Friday preliminaries will qualify for the Saturday finals. The floor exercise, trampoline, side horse and horizontal bar prelims will be held Friday afternoon, with the parallel bars, still rings and tumbling contested in the evening session.

14—Omaha Central.
12—Lincoln High, Omaha Benson.
10—Creighton Prep, Lincoln Northeast, Bellevue.
8—Lincoln Southeast, North Platte.
7—Omaha Westside, Omaha South.
6—Grand Island, Omaha Burke, Omaha Rummel, Beatrice, Omaha North.
5—Columbus.
3—Hastings, Omaha Tech.
2—Lincoln East, Omaha Bryan, McCook.
1—Boys Town, Omaha Ryan.

NIT Adds Four More

New York (AP) — Four more teams, including high-scoring Wyoming, were added Thursday to the lineup for the National Invitation Basketball Tournament in Madison Square Garden, March 13-22.

In addition to the Cowboys, who averaged 83 points a game this season, the latest entries include Tulsa, Ohio University, and St. Peters of Jersey City, N.J.

Wyoming has a 19-8 record. Tulsa is 19-7, Ohio U. 16-8 and St. Peters, 20-6.

The leading scorers for each team are Bobby "Bingo" Smith, averaging 25 points a game for Tulsa; Elnardo Webster, 23 points for St. Peters; Carl Ashley, 21 for Wyoming and Gerry McKee, 19 for Ohio. Webster scored 51 points in an NIT game against Marshall last year.

The new entries increased to 10 the number in the NIT field so far. Six more remain to be chosen. Previously selected were Boston College, Rutgers, Temple, West Texas State, Tennessee and Southern Illinois, the 1967 winner.

Doane Football Coach Al Papik Cited By NAIA

Crete — Al Papik, Doane head football coach, has been named NAIA Area III Football Coach of the Year and is one of eight semi finalists for National Coach of the Year honors.

Earlier this year, the 42-year old Papik received the District II (Nebraska) Coach of the Year citation for the third year in succession. His Doane Tigers landed a No. 7 national ranking among the country's colleges and stretched their unbeaten streak to 29 in a row, the longest in the nation.

The Tigers closed out their 10-0 1968 campaign with a 10-0 upset victory over Central Missouri State in the post-season NCAA Mineral Water Bowl.

Area III encompasses the four-state area of Oklahoma, North and South Dakota and Nebraska.

Professor Cites Import Of Learning Atmosphere

A Columbia University professor told University of Nebraska students Thursday that it may not be so important to learn at educational institutions as to be exposed to the atmosphere of learning.

"We don't even understand what learning is yet," said Dr. George Z. F. Bereday, speaking at the Centennial Symposium on Education and Economic Growth at Love Memorial Library.

The educator said he felt that people don't learn in a classroom situation unless the knowledge is validated by other experiences.

Education can only do its best and then hope for the best, Dr. Bereday said, and he suggested that it might be better to produce "clever rascals than dunces."

Speaking of the possible effects of education, the professor said if it is linked with the ability to make money, education may provoke boredom, greed and idleness. But he also said such idleness may provide freedom to cultivate the mind to beauty and harmony, and the opportunity to be "Santa Claus."

Bereday had a few critical words for an overly practical education which he said can result in "more courts, more bombs, more traffic jams and other such terrible things."

But, he added, "only on a base of hardworking people, can a poet or writer exist."

"What is really important is the availability of education to every man and to realize that to get rich quick should not be the chief goal."

"If this sounds idealistic, so be it," he concluded.

Chapin Files For Air Unit

Richard W. Chapin, executive vice president of Stuart Enterprises, filed Thursday for election to the Lincoln Airport Authority.

Chapin, 45, of 2900 O'Reilley Dr., said he is interested in the four-year-term in the airport authority because he wants better air service for both the commercial air travelers and the private plane owners.

He said he flies out of Lincoln three times a week and is acquainted with the present air service facilities.

Chapin said he is also interested in the idea of a combined Lincoln-Omaha metropolitan airport.

Born in Lincoln, Chapin is the only Nebraskan to be elected to serve on the Board of the National Association of Broadcasters.

He also is a past president and board member of the Nebraska Broadcasters Association and past board member of the Radio Advertising Bureau.

Chapin is on the board of directors of the National Bank of Commerce and is chairman of the Pershing Municipal Auditorium Advisory Board.

He is a member of the University Club, Newcomen Society of North America, First Presbyterian Church, Lincoln Country Club, and Lincoln Lodge No. 19.

Geis Seeking Airport Post

A former engineer with the Federal Aviation Administration Thursday filed as a candidate in the spring primary election for the Lincoln Airport Authority.

Laurence Geis, 63, of 6103 Kearney, said he believes his background in aviation qualifies him for a position on the authority.

Geis said his acquaintenance with many federal officials could be helpful to the authority in dealing with federal agencies.

"Being retired now, I would like to serve the community through my aviation background," he said.

As a career civil servant with the FAA, he was an airways and electronics engineer with the federal agency.

His work included establishing airways and airports for other countries as well as for the FAA in the United States, he said.

"One task I had was as administrative engineer in the updating of air facilities at a West Berlin, Germany, airport," Geis noted.

He is a member of the American Federation of Government Employes and the National Association of Retired Civil Employes and has been a member of the American Management Association.

Swihart Eyes Airport Race

Petitions are being circulated to place the name of former city prosecutor Fred Swihart on the spring primary ballot as a candidate for the Lincoln Airport Authority.

Swihart served as an assistant city attorney from 1961 until his resignation last year.

Now a private attorney, the 49-year-old Swihart said he is interested in seeing that the potential of the Lincoln airport is fully used in attracting businesses to the city.

A licensed pilot, Swihart writes a column for "Pireps," a publication of the State Department of Aeronautics. His column is entitled "Law for the Aviator."

He is a member of the American Legion, University Club, Gridiron Club, Aircraft Owners and Pilots Association, Westminster Presbyterian Church, American Bar Association and N Club.

Swihart lives at 1610 Susan Circle.

J. THOMAS ALLEN

Allen Seeks Council Seat

J. Tom Allen, 57, of 3229 So. 13th St., filed Thursday for election to the City Council.

Allen, a Lincoln businessman, ran for the office of county clerk in 1960.

He said the city should do more to get industry into the city.

"One way to do this is through fairer zoning policies," Allen said.

He asserted that council zoning decisions have caused industries to stay out of the city.

"The city must be more lenient than it has been in zoning for industry if it is to attract firms into the city," he said.

Allen said he also objects to more bonds, higher taxes, and the recent increase in sewer rate charges.

He said he was the originator of Little Chief Baseball in Lincoln and is also a member of the Masons and Elks.

Stock Prices Drop Sharply

New York (AP) — The stock market rally that began early in the week came to an end Thursday, and the market was off sharply at the close.

The Dow Jones industrial average was off 9.57 points, or 1.03%, and closed at 913.54. The closing figure was a slight improvement from that of an hour earlier, when the Dow was off 10.75 points, or 1.16%. The point loss was the largest in a single day since Feb. 24 when the Dow lost 12.68 points.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was off 4.0 at 335.8, with industrials off 5.6, rails off 3.0, and utilities off 1.1. This also was the largest point loss in a single day since Feb. 24, when the AP average fell 4.4 points.

Although gains held a slight edge over losses near the opening, the advantage was quickly erased. Of 1,586 issues traded, 1,091 declined and 262 advanced. There were 67 new 1968-69 lows and 4 new highs.

Volume was 9.67 million shares, compared with 11.37 million Wednesday.

Brokers said the decline was due, in part, to profit taking. They said the week's advance had been of a technical nature from the start and the slide downward "confirms that this, indeed, has been a technical rally."

They said Wall Street also apparently was concerned about the possibility of devaluation of the French franc and by an apparent lack of progress in the Paris peace talks.

The New York Stock Exchange index of some 1,200 common stocks was down .62 at 55.39. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index was off 1.01 at 98.70.

A total of 44 blocks of 10,000 or more shares were traded on the New York exchange, compared with 74 such blocks Wednesday.

Twentieth Century-Fox, most-active on 172,800 shares, was off 2¼ at 33⅞.

Steels, motors, rubbers, air-crafts and electronics all generally were lower as groups.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange generally were lower, with 17 of the 20 most-active stocks down and 3 up.

Hog Prices Are Mixed At Omaha

Omaha (AP) — Uneven supply distribution and the instability of the wholesale market were reflected in the action on the Omaha hog market Thursday.

Values were mixed. Although most sales headed in a lower direction in direct response to Wednesday's latest decline in the wholesale area, some choice 200-230 lb butchers rated a firm nod.

Around a load of these selected weights obtained tickets marked $20.50 while another couple of lots cornered $20.35, otherwise, prices were $20.25 and down.

Butchers under 200 lbs. remained under pressure from buyers.

Sows were mostly steady topping at $18.75.

Steers and heifers were fully steady in active trading as a fairly desirable assortment of good to choice cattle were on hand.

Cows sold steady to 25 lower, declined on cannercutter types, reflecting the cow beef market of recent sessions.

Slaughter lambs were too scarce for a market test, quotable steady at $29.00 for wooled lambs and $29.50 for shorn. Ewes were eligible $6.00-8.75.

Tax Reforms Unlikely In '69–Hruska

Long-range tax reform proposals are not likely to be enacted by Congress this year, Sen. Roman L. Hruska told members of the Nebraska Sand, Gravel and Ready Mix Concrete Association, Thursday night.

"Rep. Wilbur Mills, the chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, has said he will not be disappointed if the final product is not approved until 1970," the senator told the group.

Hruska said the Nixon administration proposals which are expected to be sent to Capital Hill within the next several days will deal primarily with short-range legislation intended to relieve the money pinch on state and local governments.

More substantial reform proposals will come later in the congressional session, he added.

Under consideration by the committee are reforms which would raise the level of tax exempt income so that persons earning less than a poverty level income would not have to pay taxes, and the creation of a minimum tax level for all citizens.

"Because of municipal bonds, some people have been able to earn an income of a million dollars tax-free," Hruska said.

Court Hears Indian Cave Park Case

The State Supreme Court Thursday took under advisement the contention of a Falls City couple that a law permitting the Game Commission to condemn part of their land for a state park is unconstitutional.

Through eminent domain procedures, the commission seeks 46 acres of land owned by Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Duerfeldt for the 3,000-acre Indian Cave State Park in southeastern Nebraska.

Oral arguments by opposing attorneys were laid before the court Thursday.

The Duerfeldt's attorney, Russell Mattson of Lincoln, contends the enabling legislation is in the nature of special or local law which is illegal under Nebraska's constitution.

A special attorney for the commission, R. M. Van Steenberg of Scottsbluff, m a intained condemnation action, with the approval of the Legislature, is permitted on a statewide basis.

Van Steenberg said the commission acted within its "delegated powers" in attempting to acquire the couple's land.

"We can find nothing in the record which would indicate unconstitutionality," he said.

The Duerfeldts brought the case to the high tribunal after a Lancaster District Court last year dismissed their petition requesting an injunction against the Game Commission.

The Duerfeldts contend that establishing a park the size of Indian Cave State Park is an unjustified exercise of police power because there is no relationship to conservation of public health, morals, safety or welfare of Nebraska citizens.

But Van Steenberg said land which has historical and-or scenic value is in the public interest.

County Water District Urged

Formation of a rural water district for Lancaster County and surrounding areas received additional encouragement in a meeting Thursday at the Lancaster County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) Office.

Area farmers received their first reports on water source and quality.

They were advised by two engineering firms — Hoskins & Associates, Inc., of Lincoln, and Bartlett & West of Topeka — that an adequate source of water with good quality is available in southeastern Lancaster County to serve a rural water district.

A permanent steering committee for a rural water district was named with Jack Schuetz of Route 8, Lincoln, appointed chairman and Don Ehlers of Roca, secretary-treasurer.

While a great deal of interest has been shown in a rural water district, the steering committee plans to announce a forthcoming meeting at Palmyra to discuss boundary lines for a water district.

Rural residents of Otoe, Johnson, Gage and Lancaster Counties will be invited to the meeting.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE

Here's How To Work It

One letter simply stands for another in this example, A is used for the three L's X for the two O's etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures gives you.
